Rescuers Detail How Pilot Escapee Found

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Lt. (j.g.) Dieter Dengler fidgeted excitedly with the hoist as the big green helicopter hovered 150 feet overhead in the remote valley in North Viet Nam during the final moments of his ordeal.

Exhausted, hungry, blistered on his feet, the Navy pilot from Pacifica, Calif., was hauled aboard the rescue ship after a 23-day trek through the jungle wilderness and flown to a U.S. military hospital in Da Nang.

Some six months after his plane had plunged into enemy territory, Dengler, 28, became the first American to escape from the North Vietnamese. For security reasons, the U.S. military command kept details of the escape secret but let his rescuers tell today how they snatched him from North Viet Nam on July 20.

Air Force Lt. Col. Eugene P. Deatrick of Morgantown, W.Va., spotted the German-born flier on a reconnaissance mission just north of the 17th Parallel frontier as his A1 Skyraider swept over a deep valley crossed by a stream.

"I passed over a bed of rocks across the stream and saw someone waving a white flag at me," said Deatrick, commander of the 1st Air Command Squadron at Pleiku. "I went by so quickly I wasn't sure what it was. Perhaps a villager waving as we went by."

Deatrick made another pass. The person was still waving. And on a third pass he saw a "very scraggly SOS" spelled out on the rocks with white cloth. He immediately radioed to get the rescue on the way.

"There was always wariness, of course, of being trapped into something," Deatrick said. "However, I was firmly convinced that the man was friendly, even though I couldn't identify the person on the ground from what he was wearing. It was a dense area, so remote from everything and the possibility of ever seeing anything—this was one in a million."

Another flight of planes came in to fly over while the crew of an Air Force "Jolly Green Giant" helicopter scrambled into action.

"At about 11.15 a.m. we got our first call for this mission and by about 11:20 we were in the air proceeding to this area," said Capt. William E. Cowell of Oahu, Hawaii, the helicopter commander.

The big chopper made one pass over Dengler, then went into action to pull him out of the jungle. By noon the helicopter men had him on board.

NEW YORK (AP)—President Zalmán Shazar of Israel arrived today from Rio de Janeiro for a visit to the United States, during which he is scheduled to meet with President Johnson next Tuesday.

Whiz Kid, 12, Finishes Second Year in College

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Mike Grost is one 12-year-old with no summer vacation problem of, "Hey, Mom, what is there to do???" The National Science Foundation grants him $30 a week to do mathematical research.

It is a program to encourage college students, and that is what Mike is—almost an all-A student at that.

Mike who just completed his sophomore year at Michigan State University's Honors College, plugged quietly along among 35,000 other students at the East Lansing campus, studying calculus, physics, religion, French and computer science.

He received only two grades of B—one in French and one in religion—to go with an otherwise straight-A record.

Faculty advisers, who first

OUT OF RED HANDS — U. S. Navy pilot Lt. Dieter Dengler (left) of Pacifica, Calif., and Air Force Capt. James Mitchell of Ogden, Utah, share a happy fate — both escaped from Communist forces in Viet Nam. Dengler, who had been held captive, escaped to U. S. control. Mitchell was on his 99th mission — just one short of completing his tour — when he was shot down over North Viet Nam. He was quickly picked up by a rescue helicopter from the Da Nang Air Base.

U.S. Negro Propagandist Believed Now in Asia

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Robert F. Williams, an American Negro who spoke for Fidel Castro in advocating racial disorder in the United States, apparently has shifted his base of operations to Asia.

Williams preached U.S. black rebellion for more than three years in English-language broadcasts over the Cuban government-controlled radio. Japanese authorities have reported hearing him in recent broadcasts from Viet Nam and Red China.

Miami monitors of Havana Radio noted that Williams discontinued his broadcasts last March. His weekly Radio Free Dixie program directed to U.S. Negroes continued for a while with a woman announcer.

For several weeks, Radio Free Dixie has not been heard. But observers of the Cuban scene say Williams' organization, Revolutionary Action Movement, continues to function in Cuba.

Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach has said in Washington that he is looking into the possibility of a connection between the Revolutionary Action Movement and racial disturbances in this country.

Wednesday, Williams was reported in a Red China broadcast monitored in Tokyo as having been a banquet guest of the China Peace Committee and the Chinese Committee for African-Asian Solidarity in Peking.

The Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba said in Miami that besides operating for the Castro government, "Williams is also connected with the North Vietnamese government, has traveled to Hanoi, and from there will broadcast to American Negro troops in South Viet Nam," urging them to lay down their arms.

Discontinued along with Williams' Havana broadcasts was "The Crusader," a "monthly newsletter" he edited in Cuba and distributed in the United States.

In one issue, he said: "The weapons of defense employed by Afro-American freedom fighters must consist of a poor man's arsenal. Gasoline fire bombs (Molotov cocktails), lye or acid bombs (made by injecting lye or acid in the metal end of light bulbs) can be used extensively."

In a broadcast early this year, Williams said: "The coming summer is going to be violent and bloody. Let our people organize, arm, unite and prepare for a war of survival and liberation. Prepare the razor, the switchblade, the bullet, the gas bomb and the match. Put the torch to the racist strongholds of the cities."

Ohio Jaycees Push Voter Registration

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A statewide "100 per cent registration drive" will be launched Aug. 1 by the 228 chapters of the Ohio Junior Chamber of Commerce. The drive will be concentrated in those Ohio areas requiring voter registration for the Nov. 8 general election.

The Jaycee announcement came simultaneously with one by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown who conferred with Jaycee officials and praised their program. Brown, too, is initiating his 1966 statewide non-partisan "Register, Inform Yourself and Vote" campaign which he coordinated in Ohio for many years.

Ellis' ill-defined center was reported about 290 miles north of San Juan and 900 miles east southeast of Miami. She was not expected to affect any land area through Thursday.

Tropical Storm Ella Is Weak, Disorganized

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Tropical storm Ella, with top winds of 50 miles an hour in a few squalls, thrashed toward the northwest today but was weak and disorganized.

Ella's ill-defined center was reported about 290 miles north of San Juan and 900 miles east southeast of Miami. She was not expected to affect any land area through Thursday.

He and his wife, Audrey, would rather see him proceed slowly, taking extra courses and exploring new fields.

As a junior, Mike has to pick a major field and has decided on physical science.

He has been working with Dr. Fritz Herzog, a mathematics professor, to catch up on some steps he missed by not taking high school math. He has taken a series of advanced calculus courses.

He also is working 20 hours a week on the National Science Foundation summer program, designed to teach research methods to college undergraduates.

"I'm enjoying it," said Mike. "It's not at all like work."

The short summer work week was designed to give Mike time for recreation with his family and friends his age.

Mike's father, William Grost of Lansing, says that it is important whether Mike receives his bachelor's degree at age 14.

U.S. Casualty

In Last Week

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. and Vietnamese pilots struck Communist positions in South Viet Nam Wednesday with new fury, flying a record total of 826 combat sorties, a military spokesman reported.

American fliers also hammered at North Viet Nam despite bad weather limiting most of their 103 missions Wednesday to the southern panhandle.

The heavy air blows in the South accompanied a rise in small-scale Communist attacks as the Viet Cong stepped up hit-and-run attacks in the wake of their defeats in larger battles with U.S. troops.

The most significant of these assaults took place 18 miles from Saigon where guerrillas overran a village a few hours before dawn and drove off the 40 militiamen defenders.

While no major fighting has been reported since Sunday, a U.S. spokesman said American combat dead more than doubled last week, presumably as a result of U.S. Marine losses as the Leathernecks launched Operation Hastings against a North Vietnamese division near the northern border July 15.

The spokesman said 136 Americans were killed, 578 wounded and 14 missing compared with 65 killed, 368 wounded and no missing in the previous seven days. Total allied dead for the week of July 10-16 climbed to 334, compared with 279 the previous week. Communist dead rose to 1,272, an increase of 72, the spokesman said.

The casualties brought the unofficial total of U.S. combat dead to 2,728 since Jan. 1 and to 4,440 for the war.

U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marine fliers flew 542 single-plane strikes in the record day in the South Wednesday. Vietnamese fliers added 284 more.

The Strategic Air Command's B52s made three raids today. Two were aimed at the Communist-held D Zone north of Saigon, the other at the hills just below the 17th Parallel demilitarized zone where the Marines are continuing the hunt for North Viet Nam's 324B Division.

A Navy A4 Skyhawk from the carrier Oriskany and its pilot was reported missing over North Viet Nam on a strike against a missile site near Vinh. It was the 311th plane reported lost over the North.

Although limited by typhoon weather, the U.S. fliers blasted 11 fuel dumps, including a big complex near Vinh and another at the nearby former army camp of Badoon, a spokesman said. He said the pilots did not encounter any anti-aircraft missiles or Communist MIGs.

The fliers on the Badoon raid said the Reds were using craters from previous bombings to hide their oil drums. The pilots said they started five new fires.

Wanted Slayer Shoots Himself

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A 30-year-old man wanted in Indiana on charges of murdering his wife and sister-in-law shot himself in the head with two pistols when he was cornered today by police on a bridge. He was identified as Stephen Bruce Wolfe of Marion.

Officers had tracked him down from a wanted poster from Indiana authorities. When they tried to stop his car on the Riviera Beach bridge over Lake Worth, he drew two pistols and shot himself in the head with both, police said.

Wolfe was charged in Marion with strangling and stabbing his wife, Marilee, 22, and her sister, Gayle Galt, 17.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Is the beverage industry's invention of ring-top openers threatening the parking-meter business?

San Francisco police report that some motorists have inserted the rings in coin slots to defraud parking meters.

In the past four months the cheap and effective substitutes for small change have jammed 4,300 meters each month, compared with 2,500 previously, police say.

Strike-Stopping Law Eyed by Senate Panel

Wave of Indignation On Rights Issue Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Local real estate boards have been urged by their national association to "help generate an immediate wave of indignation" against a proposed open housing law.

The proposal is a key part of a civil rights bill on which the House hopes to complete formal debate today, setting the stage for the start of voting on dozens of expected amendments.

Action on the housing section is not expected to come before early next week. Sections dealing with jury selection and protection of Negroes' rights will be taken up first.

The housing provision would prohibit discrimination by real estate agents or others in the business of selling or renting housing, but would exempt individual owners selling their own homes. It is a Republican-sponsored substitute for a stricter ban proposed by the administration.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards, which has taken the lead in opposing an open housing law, recently sent a letter to its members calling the substitute proposal "more onerous and more oppressive than the original version."

"You must help generate an immediate wave of indignation by all citizens against Title IV," the letter said in reference to the housing section.

A spokesman for the association confirmed circulation of the letter after a copy was made available by Clarence Mitchell, Washington representative of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Mitchell said he got it from a real estate agent who opposes the association's position. The association spokesman said the letter was one of a number sent in an effort to arouse opposition to open housing legislation.

It called on "every realtor, every member of the business community who cherishes private enterprise and every property owner who values the traditional guarantees which go with the right of property ownership," to urge his Congress member to vote to eliminate the open housing section from the bill.

A Southern opponent of the bill, Rep. Howard T. Callaway, R-Ga., suggested that the provision might be used to require racial balance in residential areas.

Callaway said the action of federal authorities in cutting off funds for schools that fail to desegregate sets a pattern in that could be followed under an open housing law.

Shrimp Boat Fleet Helps Save 51 on Burning Ship

PORT ARKANSAS, Tex. (AP)—Shrimp boats heading into the Gulf of Mexico for a night's catch teamed for a swift and dramatic rescue of all 51 persons forced overboard as the sports fishing craft Marlin Queen caught fire late Wednesday.

The Marlin Queen, later wracked by an explosion, burned and sank. It was inbound through shark-infested waters when a passenger shouted: "Smoke! Smoke!"

"I couldn't imagine where it was coming from," said the vessel's skipper, Tom McNatt. "One of the deck hands opened an engine hatch and smoke billowed out, and flames."

"The crew shot carbon dioxide on it but didn't make any headway. That's when I told them to issue lifejackets and radioed a 'May Day.'"

6-Month Order

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor Committee rejected today the proposal that it sent airlines strike negotiators back to the bargaining table, and moved on toward action of its own.

The bargaining suggestion, followed closely the administration advice offered by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, was proposed at a closed-door committee session by Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.

Sen. Lister Hill, D-Ala., said the vote against it was 10 to 5. "It doesn't do anything," Hill said.

With that plan rejected, the committee set another session later today to consider strike-stopping legislation proposed by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore.

Morse said he will go to the Senate itself if the committee does not accept his bill for a six-months back-to-work order.

The committee session began just after the starting time for the resumption of bargaining between airline and machinists union negotiators at the Labor Department. The talks had been in recess for 48 hours since Congress moved in on the dispute.

The time for renewal of negotiations was fixed Wednesday night but face-to-face talks were delayed for more than an hour while Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz met privately first with the union vice president, Joseph W. Ramsey, and then with William J. Curtin, chief airline negotiator.

"There is no question about the fact that there is a national emergency," said Morse, who headed a presidential emergency board that earlier recommended a compromise settlement.

The five strike-bound airlines—United, Eastern, National, Northwest and Trans World—normally carry more than 60 per cent of the nation's air traffic.

Ike in Hospital For Routine Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has been in Walter Reed Army Hospital since Monday for what an aide called "routine tests."

The aide, Brig. Gen. Robert L. Schulz, said that he had no information as to the nature or purpose of the tests, or as to how much longer Eisenhower would be hospitalized.

Eisenhower, 75, suffered a heart attack in 1955 while President, and another last year in Augusta, Ga. He also underwent emergency surgery for ileitis in 1956, and he had a minor stroke in 1957. He spent three weeks at Walter Reed Hospital last May for treatment of an arthritic condition.

Three crewmen, including McNatt, scrambled off the stern of the burning craft into the sea—some into lifeboats—late Wednesday afternoon.

All were rescued within 20 minutes by shrimp boats operating in the vicinity. They got clear shortly before the blazing Marlin Queen's fuel tanks exploded.

The fishing vessel, valued at more than $80,000 burned to the waterline, listed and sank in 60 feet of water.

McNatt speculated that an electrical malfunction caused the fire. "All the instruments and gauges were normal—maybe a battery exploded," he said.

The Marlin Queen, owned by White Marlin Enterprises, was about 6½ miles off the coast after a five-hour fishing excursion.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has been in Walter Reed Army Hospital since Monday for what an aide called "routine tests."

The aide, Brig. Gen. Robert L. Schulz, said that he had no information as to the nature or purpose of the tests, or as to how much longer Eisenhower would be hospitalized.

Eisenhower, 75, suffered a heart attack in 1955 while President, and another last year in Augusta, Ga. He also underwent emergency surgery for ileitis in 1956, and he had a minor stroke in 1957. He spent three weeks at Walter Reed Hospital last May for treatment of an arthritic condition.

Three crewmen, including McNatt, scrambled off the stern of the burning craft into the sea—some into lifeboats—late Wednesday afternoon.

All were rescued within 20 minutes by shrimp boats operating in the vicinity. They got clear shortly before the blazing Marlin Queen's fuel tanks exploded.

The fishing vessel, valued at more than $80,000 burned to the waterline, listed and sank in 60 feet of water.

McNatt speculated that an electrical malfunction caused the fire. "All the instruments and gauges were normal—maybe a battery exploded," he said.

The Marlin Queen, owned by White Marlin Enterprise, was about 6½ miles off the coast after a five-hour fishing excursion.

Airline Union

of the striking AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists, and chief airlines negotiator William J. Curtin said "yes, sir" when senators asked if they would resume talks.

"The prospects, of course, are not bright," Curtin said.
"We do not feel that the carriers are going to make an offer that is satisfactory to the members by majority vote as long as there is pending legislation," Siemiller said.

"They (the airlines) would rather have legislation than settlement," he said.

Curtin said the airlines feared repercussions if they raised their offer further above White House wage increase guidelines of 3.2 per cent per year.

He said about 3.8 per cent was the airlines' last offer, while the union is demanding 5 per cent a year. Top mechanics now earn $3.52 per hour.

"We don't think our demands are inflationary," Siemiller said.

Sen. Lister Hill, D-Ala., the committee chairman, said of Wirtz "back to the woodshed" plea: "This time we could say if they didn't settle it, we'd bring the paddle to the woodshed."

Wirtz agreed, saying "and we wouldn't tell them which paddle."

The five struck airlines agreed last August to bargain jointly with the machinists union. Braniff, Continental and Northeast airlines, with employees represented by the same union, did not enter the agreement and were not struck.

A threatened strike against American Airlines by members of the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union was postponed for 60 days when the White House announced Wednesday that President Johnson was setting up an emergency board to study issues between the airline and the union.

Girl, 18, Succeeds Her Sister as Queen

CINCINNATI (AP)—There's nothing like keeping beauty queen honors in the family.

Pat Talent, an 18-year-old beauty, was selected Wednesday night as queen of suburban Norwood's annual Norwood Day.

She succeeded her sister, Pam, who placed the crown on Pat's head.

Oswald's Widow Moves Out of Her 'Glass House'

GREENVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Away from the "glass house" she wanted to leave in Dallas, the widow of Lee Harvey Oswald was in her new house here today.

Tuesday was moving day for the Kenneth Jess Porters, and they were quick to tell Dallas newsmen they were happy to leave the town where, the Warren Commission says, Mrs. Porter's former husband shot and killed President John F. Kennedy and policeman J.D. Tippit.

"How would you like living in a glass house for all the world to see?" Mrs. Marina Oswald Porter asked as she left Dallas.

A few hours later, she was in Greenville, population 21,000, — about 50 miles northeast of Dallas.

Marina, her three children — two by Oswald and an infant born July 3 — and a woman friend drove up to the modest frame and brick home.

From across the street, Marina could be seen looking carefully over the neighborhood. Finally she left the small, white sedan and started walking toward the house. A news photographer raised his camera.

"Oh, no!" said Mrs. Porter. She ran into the house, leaving her children with her tall, brunette friend.

A few minutes later she sent word to newsmen that she had "nothing to say."

"Just leave me alone," she said. Then her husband arrived. A newsman walked toward him. "I don't want to shake hands," said Porter. "I don't want to talk to you. I would appreciate it if you would just leave." He hurried into the house to join his wife.

Marina, the blonde, Russian-born woman who married Oswald when he went to Russia and then accompanied him home to Dallas County, wore a blouse and capri pants.

Porter was in his shirt sleeves in the near 100-degree temperature.

Their new home is on a side street in the southern section of this small northeast Texas cotton town. It has white asbestos siding and is trimmed in red brick. Nearby is the high school football stadium.

A few houses away lives Richard E. Porter, a Greenville fireman who is a brother of Marina's husband.

Controversial Cleveland Center To Be Reopened

CLEVELAND (AP)—Lewis G. Robinson says he plans to reopen his controversial JFK House, which has come under attack from police and political leaders because of alleged involvement of JFK youths in rioting in Cleveland's Negro ghetto.

Rioting that started in the Hough area on Cleveland's East Side the night of July 18 was followed by sniping and firebombing which continues several nights in a row. In the disorders, four Negroes lost their lives and several buildings were destroyed by flames.

An estimate that claims arising from the riots will total $500,000 was made Wednesday by Joseph C. Boggins, executive vice president of the Insurance Board of Cleveland.

Councilman Edward F. Katalinas, representing the ward in which the JFK House is located told newsmen the center founded by Robinson was "a cancer on the body of the community."

Katalinas testified Wednesday before a grand jury investigating the riots, as did Boggins.

Police Chief Richard Wagner, who was slated to testify today along with Mayor Ralph S. Long.

cher, told newsmen last Friday that Negro youths responsible for firebombing in the Hough area were linked to the JFK House, which was founded by the 37-year-old Robinson in 1964.

Robinson said at that time there was nothing to the chief's allegations.

The police sanitation unit shut the JFK House down Monday on grounds the store-front center failed to meet the city code. Robinson called the police action harassment and said he plans to "hold a party at the house Saturday night."

"The kids and I will spend the day getting it cleaned up," he said, adding that he will ask the city to inspect it again and approve it for reopening.

While the grand jury probe continues, the Ohio National Guard force on duty in the riot area is being further reduced.

A contingent of 750 guardsmen leaves today after nine days of riot duty. Some 500 guard members left Tuesday and still on duty here will be about 750 members.

The East Side has been calm all this week under the surveillance of police and guard patrols.

Recklessness Draws $50 Fine In City Court

Ronald Stauffer, 22, Lockbourne Air Base, was fined $50 and costs in Circleville Municipal Court Wednesday for reckless operation.

He entered a plea of guilty to the charge.

Ina Sue Chrisman, Ashville, was fined $25 and costs for failure to yield the right of way.

Other cases were: Donald Jones, 31, Bloomington, Ill.; $15 and costs for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Barbara Manson, 25, Grove City; $24 bond forfeiture for driving after dusk with no headlights.

Naomi Horsley, 30, Columbus; $24 bond forfeiture for speeding 75 miles per hour in 60 mile zone.

Youngstown Aides To Get Pay Hike

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Striking municipal employees went back to work today with a new wage increase package that is expected to cost the city around $600,000 during the next 17 months.

The two-day-old strike of about 370 of Youngstown's 1,300 municipal employees ended when union leaders and city officials reached accord on the pay hikes and agreed to future meetings to discuss numerous grievances.

The salary increases cover all city employees although only members of the sanitation, street and water departments had been on strike.

Sen. Fulbright Raps Foreign Aid Program

Military Money Strongly Opposed By Arkansas Solon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. J.W. Fulbright has driven in a new wedge to widen the foreign policy differences between himself and the administration.

Fitting deed to months of words of criticism, the Arkansas Democrat cast a vote of no confidence in a key administration foreign policy program.

After the Senate voted 55 to 37 to cut $100 million from the $892-million military assistance program, it passed the bill by an 82-7 margin Wednesday—but with Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, among the nay votes.

As committee chairman, Fulbright was what senators call "floor manager" for the administration's foreign aid program.

The floor manager is supposed to be both advocate and defender of his bill. But Tuesday Fulbright voted "with misgivings" for the economic assistance part of the program. After his "no" vote on military aid Wednesday he declared in a statement: "When economic assistance fails, the result is a breakdown or delay in some aspect of development. When military assistance goes wrong, the consequences are much more spectacular."

And, like other opponents of the measure, Fulbright cited suspicions that American military aid to Pakistan "actually caused the war" last year between India and Pakistan.

"If we had not provided the arms, Pakistan would not have been able to seek a military solution" of its Kashmir dispute with India, said Fulbright.

Most of the debate over the program centered on efforts to cut it from as much as $250 million down to $100 million, which the Senate finally accepted.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., complained that "this idea that if we chop out $250 million they might spend the money more wisely is a sad commentary on what makes America click."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen acknowledged that he had led the successful efforts last week to slash $250 million from the economic program but said he was not going to "jeopardize" national security by voting to reduce military items.

The military aid authorization joins the economic assistance authorization measure in a Senate - House Conference. There they will be considered along with a $4.1-billion foreign aid authorization for fiscal 1967 and 1968 which was passed by the House July 14.

Funds for the programs must be provided under appropriations measures.

Williamsport Man Fined $15 For Having Coon

Lloyd Ratliff, Williamsport, was fined $15 and costs in Circleville Municipal Court Wednesday for illegal possession of a raccoon.

He was cited by Pickaway County Game Protector Russell Tippet.

Helen and Ed Delgarn of Columbus, both forfeited $24 bonds for fishing when they had no license. Both were cited by Tippet.

Harold Holste, a game protector, cited Wanda Browning, Ashville, for fishing when she had no license. She forfeited a $24 bond when she failed to appear for a court hearing.

Stock Mart Holding Up

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market remained generally higher early this afternoon despite profit taking which trimmed some prices. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.17 at 858.40.

Airlines, nonferrous metals, electronics and drugs remained generally higher but steels turned mixed after an early rise. Chemicals and electrical equipments also erased some gains and became irregular.

As the recovery movement went into its second straight session it was losing some headway, lacking any concrete news to bring in additional buyers. While most corporate earnings reports were favorable, this was not having much effect on stock buyers.

Chrysler became the third of the Big Three automakers to report lower earnings for the second quarter. Chrysler stock showed a fractional loss after trading unchanged at the start.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .7 at 309.7 with industrials up 1.5, rails off .1 and utilities up .3.

Owens-Illinois, Inc., sales and earnings for the first six months of 1966 rose nine per cent over last year to $444,468, 272 and $27,259,929 respectively, the highest of any six months period in company history, according to J. P. Levis, chairman of the board.

Last year's sales and earnings for the same period were $404,570,552 and $24,997,071.

After preferred dividend requirements, earnings per common share were $1.77, compared to $1.62 in the first six months of 1965. Last year's earnings were restated to reflect the change in depreciation.

Unionists Are Accused Of Assaulting Police

CLEVELAND (AP) — Five members of the United Auto Workers Local 70, which is on strike against Rotor Tool Co. of Euclid, entered pleas of innocent Wednesday to charges stemming from a fight between pickets and Euclid Police July 7.

Charges range from intoxication and disturbing the peace to assault and fighting with policemen.

adopted last December for book and financial reporting only.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. reported record sales for the first half and a continuation for the first six months of the earnings improvement trend which has been underway since 1961.

Net sales were $465,714,000 as compared with $432,135,000 for the same period of 1965. Earnings of $27,815,000 or $2.71 per share this year compared with $26,993,000 or $2.54 per share reported last year.

Chairman David G. Hill said that all divisions registered volume gains, but that the rapidly expanding chemical and fiber glass divisions had experienced particularly large sales increases.

Hill said the company is engaged in the largest capital expansion program in its history, and that while the prospects for improved earnings never looked brighter, the company is experiencing some of the temporarily higher expenses which accompany any accelerating capital program. This was one of the factors adversely affecting second quarter earnings, he said.

CATV in Ashtabula To Be Underground

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — Ashtabula will have the nation's first underground community television (CATV) system, reports a spokesman for Ashtabula Cabel TV Inc.

got in it. It took him a couple of seconds to figure out how it operated. He was a little excited and glad to be there and he just had a little problem.

"But he made it on the hoist all right. We hoisted him up, and I reached out and pulled him in as he got up beside the aircraft. At that moment, he kind of went to pieces, as you'd expect. He grabbed for me around the leg and held me. He was just happy to be on board.

"Actually, it's hard to say if he said anything, except 'Oh, God!' I listened to him all the way. I talked to him a little bit but he went into shock on me three different times.

"I was pretty busy there trying to keep him in the best shape I could mentally as well as physically. The physical shape he was in was excellent — excellent physical shape. He took care of himself real well, he told me of what happened, where he had been — his name, rank, serial number and things like this."

The Defense Department, announcing the rescued pilot's name in Washington Wednesday, said that security requirements prevented disclosing other details of Dengler's escape now. The secrecy lid presumably was ordered to keep the North Vietnamese from devising measures against similar escapes by any of the 63 other Americans believed held by them.

After treatment in Da Nang, Dengler was believed to have been flown to the United States for recuperation and questioning. The San Mateo (Calif.) Times said he was under treatment at Travis Air Force Base, 50 miles north of San Francisco. Dengler's brother, Martin, who works in a San Francisco bakery, told reporters the Pentagon had advised him not to talk about the rescue but he said of Dieter's escape: "That's good, that's good."

The brothers came to the United States from their native

Germany in 1957. Their father was killed in World War II.

Dengler's mother, Maria, who lives in the picturesque village of Calw, at the edge of the Black Forest, told a reporter she had never given up hope for her son after receiving word in February he had been shot down.

Another brother, Roland, a butcher in Calw, commented: "Dieter was always a tough boy. Whatever he took hold of worked."

Dengler served in the U.S. Air Force from June 1957 to April 1963, then was commissioned as a Navy flier in 1964. He attended San Francisco City College and San Mateo Junior College. Dengler was said in Washington to have been suffering from severe maintenance when sustained himself on roots and other edibles he had been taught to look for in his survival training.

A few Americans have escaped from the Viet Cong but there is no record of any previous flight from North Vietnamese captivity.

Owens-Illinois, Inc., sales and earnings for the first six months of 1966 rose nine per cent over last year to $444,468, 272 and $27,259,929 respectively, the highest of any six months period in company history, according to J. P. Levis, chairman of the board.

Last year's sales and earnings for the same period were $404,570,552 and $24,997,071.

After preferred dividend requirements, earnings per common share were $1.77, compared to $1.62 in the first six months of 1965. Last year's earnings were restated to reflect the change in depreciation

Unionists Are Accused Of Assaulting Police

CLEVELAND (AP) — Five members of the United Auto Workers Local 70, which is on strike against Rotor Tool Co. of Euclid, entered pleas of innocent Wednesday to charges stemming from a fight between pickets and Euclid Police July 7.

Charges range from intoxication and disturbing the peace to assault and fighting with policemen.

adopted last December for book and financial reporting only.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. reported record sales for the first half and a continuation for the first six months of the earnings improvement trend which has been underway since 1961.

Net sales were $465,714,000 as compared with $432,135,000 for the same period of 1965. Earnings of $27,815,000 or $2.71 per share this year compared with $26,993,000 or $2.54 per share reported last year.

Chairman David G. Hill said that all divisions registered volume gains, but that the rapidly expanding chemical and fiber glass divisions had experienced particularly large sales increases.

Hill said the company is engaged in the largest capital expansion program in its history, and that while the prospects for improved earnings never looked brighter, the company is experiencing some of the temporarily higher expenses which accompany any accelerating capital program. This was one of the factors adversely affect-

CATV in Ashtabula To Be Underground

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — Ashtabula will have the nation's first underground community television (CATV) system, reports a spokesman for Ashtabula Cabel TV Inc.

Ground was broken by the firm Wednesday for the first strip of 85 miles of underground cable laid by modern machinery. The process requires no digging. The machine slices the cable into the ground on a narrow ditch and then covers it.

got in it. It took him a couple of seconds to figure out how it operated. He was a little excited and glad to be there and he just had a little problem.

"But he made it on the hoist all right. We hoisted him up, and I reached out and pulled him in as he got up beside the aircraft. At that moment, he kind of went to pieces, as you'd expect. He grabbed for me around the leg and held me. He was just happy to be on board.

"Actually, it's hard to say if he said anything, except 'Oh, God!' I listened to him all the way. I talked to him a little bit but he went into shock on me three different times.

"I was pretty busy there trying to keep him in the best shape I could mentally as well as physically. The physical shape he was in was excellent — excellent physical shape. He took care of himself real well, he told me of what happened, where he had been — his name, rank, serial number and things like this."

The Defense Department, announcing the rescued pilot's name in Washington Wednesday, said that security requirements prevented disclosing other details of Dengler's escape now. The secrecy lid presumably was ordered to keep the North Vietnamese from devising measures against similar escapes by any of the 63 other Americans believed held by them.

After treatment in Da Nang, Dengler was believed to have been flown to the United States for recuperation and questioning. The San Mateo (Calif.) Times said he was under treatment at Travis Air Force Base, 50 miles north of San Francisco.

Dengler's brother, Martin, who works in a San Francisco bakery, told reporters the Pentagon had advised him not to talk about the rescue but he said of Dieter's escape: "That's good, that's good."

The brothers came to the United States from their native

Germany in 1957. Their father was killed in World War II.

Dengler's mother, Maria, who lives in the picturesque village of Calw, at the edge of the Black Forest, told a reporter she had never given up hope for her son after receiving word in February he had been shot down.

Another brother, Roland, a butcher in Calw, commented: "Dieter was always a tough boy. Whatever he took hold of worked."

Dengler served in the U.S. Air Force from June 1957 to April 1963, then was commissioned as a Navy flier in 1964. He attended San Francisco City College and San Mateo Junior College.

Dengler was said in Washington to have been suffering from severe malnutrition when he was captured. He had been taught to look for his survival training.

A few Americans have escaped from the Viet Cong but there is no record of any previous flight from North Vietnamese captivity.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

In this era of mechanical hearts I am still confused as to how blood circulates through the body. Can it be explained simply?

W.D., Missouri

Dear Mr. D.: The complex process of the circulation of the blood is particularly remarkable because of its simplicity.

The circulation of the blood depends on the heart, arteries, veins and capillaries. Starting from the heart, red blood filled with oxygen, is pumped into the largest artery in the body, the aorta.

The blood then flows through smaller and smaller arteries, bringing nourishment to every organ, to every tissue, to every bone, to every muscle in the body. Finally, the arteries are reduced in size to tiny capillaries and the blood they contain has all but exhausted its oxygen supply.

Now the return process to the heart begins. Bluish blood (without oxygen) enters the veins and is carried back to the heart through larger and larger veins.

When the venous blood finally gets to the heart it is short-circuited into the lungs to pick up the oxygen it now lacks. The blood, replenished with its life giving oxygen, is returned to the heart and the cycle of blood circulation starts all over again. This remarkable mechanism is repeated about 10 million times a year.

"When do I yell 'Fore'?"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

In A beguiling new book, "The Polite Americans," Gerald Carson reminds us that "a Virginian aristocrat in 1853 would never be so gauche as to throw up to a Yankee the misfortune of his birthplace." And forty years later, in the same milieu, a lady reproached her servant for kicking an inquiring reporter down stairs. "After all," she pointed out. "The person was only trying to earn an honest living in a most disagreeable way."

Here are a few other memorable bits of Americana unearthed by Mr. Carson: 1. The first Harvard man to have his ears cut off was one Joshua Parker—for forging a deed. 2. The American president who sported by far the longest set of whiskers was Rutherford B. Hayes. 3. A visitor at a Fifth Avenue mansion, anxious to impress his hostess at dinner, actually remarked, "In Eastern Uganda, one hears it is no longer compulsory to take part in the rain-making dances." 4. Satchel Paige, ageless baseball immortal, asked to comment on life among the rich, summed it all up with a heart-felt, "The social ramble just ain't restful."

The boss summoned his new secretary and told her angrily, "You always must answer the phone the moment you hear it ringing." "If you say so," she agreed reluctantly. "But it seems so silly. Nine times out of ten it's for you."

There's an old sourdough up in Alaska who hails originally from Texas. He's just bought a sled for $75,000. Instead of huskies, it's pulled by eight Cadillacs.

The late Hugh Baillie, who once headed the United Press, was convinced that most of the terrible mistakes of the Twentieth Century could be traced to defective information. Thus it was out of ignorance that Hitler misjudged the capacity of Britain and the United States to fight back. Hitler was only one member of the legion of the misinformed. Neville Chamberlain, who had neglected to read "Mein Kampf," really believed that the peace of Europe could be saved by letting the Nazis take the Czech Sudetenland. And Stalin thought he had made a safe deal when he connived with Hitler to re-partition Poland.

What Mr. Baillie believed about the importance of accurate information is still true, but what can newspapers do about it when people insist on making news that in itself serves to mislead the enemy? Thus we have a Professor Richard R. Baxter of the Harvard Law School telling the New York Times that North Vietnam might try American military prisoners on "narrow" grounds, possibly for violation of the laws of North Vietnam. By putting it in such an "objective" way, Professor Baxter may be conveying to Ho Chi Minh, the dictator of North Vietnam, that there are eole in the United States who can contemplate with equanimity the idea that sold iers can be common criminals when they take military orders from their superiors. True objectivity would have required Professor Baxter to explain that if American fliers are to be considered "war criminals," then any captured North Vietnamese accomplice of the Viet Cong is, by the same "narrow" token, a "war criminal," too. In our eyes the North Vietnamese began the war by violating a border.

The trouble with some Americans, if we may be pontifical about it, is that they don't realize that much of the world fails to understand the ABC's of free democratic newspaper practice. As the late Marguerite Higgins said, "news is a singular thing" — meaning that it is the unexpected, the actually new, that gets the front page spread. No American who is used to traditional man bites dog newspaper practice would interret a banner headline about the murder of eight Chicago nurses by a psychopath to mean that America is populated by a race of demons. Nor does any American in his right mind believe that the younger generation is wholly composed of beatniks and New Leftists when he reads about a hirsute graduate student biting a cop in Berkeley, California. But a transmutation occurs when news of the U. S. passes beyond the iron or bamboo curtain. Our enemies, who have never studied at an American school of journalism, do not know how to distinguish between the "singular thing" that is headline material and the "plural thing" that makes the news "singular" merely by differing from it.

Ho Chi Minh's inability to understand western newspaper custom cannot be cured at this late date. But Americans could cease to play into his hands. Thus Dr. Benjamin Spock, an estimable person in his own medical field, might consider the impact upon our enemies when he helps lead a "peace march" on Washington. The

The late Hugh Baillie, who once headed the United Press, was convinced that most of the terrible mistakes of the Twentieth Century could be traced to defective information. Thus it was out of ignorance that Hitler misjudged the capacity of Britain and the United States to fight back. Hitler was only one member of the legion of the misinformed. Neville Chamberlain, who had neglected to read "Mein Kampf," really believed that the peace of Europe could be saved by letting the Nazis take the Czech Sudetenland. And Stalin thought he had made a safe deal when he connived with Hitler to re-partition Poland.

What Mr. Baillie believed about the importance of accurate information is still true, but what can newspapers do about it when people insist on making news that in itself serves to mislead the enemy? Thus we have a Professor Richard R. Baxter of the Harvard Law School telling the New York Times that North Vietnam might try American military prisoners on "narrow" grounds, possibly for violation of the laws of North Vietnam. By putting it in such an "objective" way, Professor Baxter may be conveying to Ho Chi Minh, the dictator of North Vietnam, that there are eole in the United States who can contemplate with equanimity the idea that sold iers can be common criminals when they take military orders from their superiors. True objectivity would have required Professor Baxter to explain that if American fliers are to be considered "war criminals," then any captured North Vietnamese accomplice of the Viet Cong is, by the same "narrow" token, a "war criminal," too. In our eyes the North Vietnamese began the war by violating a border.

The trouble with some Americans, if we may be pontifical about it, is that they don't realize that much of the world fails to understand the ABC's of free democratic newspaper practice. As the late Marguerite Higgins said, "news is a singular thing" — meaning that it is the unexpected, the actually new, that gets the front page spread. No American who is used to traditional man bites dog newspaper practice would interret a banner headline about the murder of eight Chicago nurses by a psychopath to mean that America is populated by a race of demons. Nor does any American in his right mind believe that the younger generation is wholly composed of beatniks and New Leftists when he reads about a hirsute graduate student biting a cop in Berkeley, California. But a transmigration occurs when news of the U. S. passes beyond the iron or bamboo curtain. Our enemies, who have never studied at an American school of journalism, do not know how to distinguish between the "singular thing" that is headline material and the "plural thing" that makes the news "singular" merely by differing from it.

Ho Chi Minh's inability to understand western newspaper custom cannot be cured at this late date. But Americans could cease to play into his hands. Thus Dr. Benjamin Spock, an estimable person in his own medical field, might consider the impact upon our enemies when he helps lead a "leace march" on Washington. The peace marchers may be conveying the entirely misleading idea to Ho Chi Minh that he need only wait until after the November elections to witness a chastened Lyndon Johnson giving the signal to U.S. forces to evacuate South Vietnam. Lyndon Johnson, of course, is made of tougher stuff than that.

Americans, too, might consider it their duty to inform themselves about what their enemies have been saying. It has become a commonplace to observe that Neville Chamberlain made a sad mistake when he neglected to bone up on Hitler's "Mein Kampf" before going to Munich. But when Dr. Spock or the Reverend William Sloane Coffin calls for "negotiations" with Ho Chi Minh and Mao Tse-tung, have they considered the import of Mao's writings on

By John Chamberlain

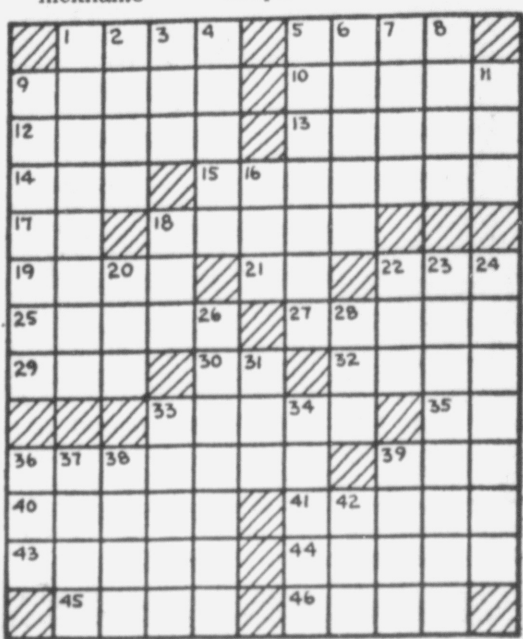

"the Yenan way"? Mao has declared perpetual guerilla war on the capitalist west; and Chou Enli, repeating the words of his master, has said there can be no dealings with Peking prior to a total guerilla victory in South Vietnam. How do you "negotiate" with people to whom the word "compromise" is meaningless? As one who is just as anxious for an enduring peace as Dr. Spock or the Rev. Coffin, I wish I knew.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

In this era of mechanical hearts I am still confused as to how blood circulates through the body. Can it be explained simply?

W.D., Missouri
Dear Mr. D.: The complex process of the circulation of the blood is particularly remarkable because of its simplicity.

The circulation of the blood depends on the heart, arteries, veins and capillaries. Starting from the heart, red blood filled with oxygen, is pumped into the largest artery in the body, the aorta.

The blood then flows through smaller and smaller arteries, bringing nourishment to every organ, to every tissue, to every bone, to every muscle in the body. Finally, the arteries are reduced in size to tiny capillaries and the blood they contain has all but exhausted its oxygen supply.

Now the return process to the heart begins. Bluish blood (without oxygen) enters the veins and is carried back to the heart through larger and larger veins.

When the venous blood finally gets to the heart it is short-circuited into the lungs to pick up the oxygen it now lacks. The blood, replenished with its life giving oxygen, is returned to the heart and the cycle of blood circulation starts all over again. This remarkable mechanism is repeated about 10 million times a year.

I have been reading your column.

Food Service Survival Tied To Computer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An Ohio State University dietician predicts the electronic computer may be the key to survival for many food service operations.

John P. Casbergue, assistant professor of medical dietetics at Ohio State's School of Allied Medical Services, said computer use is now being studied in menu planning, work scheduling, cafeteria design simulation and food service planning.

Casbergue said there have been predictions that the future of the food business will be determined by only six major companies by 1975.

"Computer assistance will make it possible to increase management's position to the point that other companies, using traditional methods, will be unable to compete," he said.

Dear Abby: Why Not Compromise

DEAR ABBY: After eight years of marriage I am ready to leave my husband. Saturday morning while he was sleeping, I rearranged the furniture in my front room. When I went out in the afternoon, he moved everything back the way it was before I moved it. Naturally I was angry, so I moved everything back again my way.

This was no small job, Abby, as I have a grand piano, an overstuffed sofa with two matching chairs and several tables and lamps in that room. Well, at 2 o'clock in the morning my husband was moving the furniture around again. I figure that the office is HIS, and the house is MINE. And I don't tell him how to arrange the office furniture and he shouldn't tell me how to arrange the house furniture. I'd like your opinion.

ANGRY

DEAR ANGRY: You don't have to share your husband's office, but he has to live in the house. If he is dissatisfied with the furniture arrangement at home, let him say so and perhaps you can effect a compromise. In a marriage, there is no HIS and HERS. And if you two don't quit shoving that grand piano around, there will be a HIS and HERS HERNIA.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow,

How Weather Looks Today

CENTRAL OHIO—Chance of thundershowers tonight. Low upper 60s. Friday partly cloudy, not as humid. High in upper 80s.

NORTHWEST, NORTHEAST AND EAST CENTRAL OHIO—Becoming fair later tonight. Low 60-66. Friday partly cloudy and not so warm.

SOUTHEAST OHIO—Mostly cloudy, warm and humid with scattered showers and thundershowers tonight and Friday. Low tonight near 70. High Friday near 90.

SOUTHWEST OHIO—Cloudy with occasional showers and scattered thundershowers, warm and humid tonight. Friday partly cloudy and mild.

Event Cancelled

A Scavenger Hunt planned for Saturday at the Pickaway Country Club has been cancelled due to insufficient reservations.

Picnic Is Planned

The Faith Class of the First Baptist Church will hold a picnic 6:30 p. m. Monday at A.W. Marion State Park.

Grilling chicken outdoors?

Baste with a mixture of melted butter, lemon juice, curry powder and paprika.

Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond M. Ankns of Stoutsville were recent visitors in Williamsport. Mr. Ankns also made a business trip to Chillicothe.

Miss Leslie Nelson, Cleveland, is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Louise D. Crawford, 118 Corwin St.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester George and daughter Susan, South Bloomfield, have recently returned from a visit with relatives and friends in Winston, Salem, N. C.

Mrs. Robert Elsea and Robert and David, Terre Haute, Ind., are house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Thomerson, 333 Woodlane. Weekend guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bell, Bassets, Va., and Capt. Gary J. Thomerson, Luxembourg.

Man, 71, Is Accused Of Shooting at Boys

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Ben Klinismit, 71, was bound over to the grand jury Wednesday on a charge of shooting with intent to wound 10-year-old Herbert Hayes. Klinismit waived preliminary examination when arraigned before Municipal Judge R. L. Marrs.

The charge, police said, was filed last Saturday after Klinismit allegedly fired a shotgun into a group of three youths, including Hayes, when he found them in the vicinity of a garage of his residence.

Man, 34, Indicted In Night Club Slaying

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—Ronald G. Hayes, 34, indicted by the grand jury on a second-degree murder charge in the slaying of night club owner Ben Hart, 48, will be arraigned Tuesday in Common Pleas Court.

The grand jury indicted Hayes of Sheffield Lake, Wednesday in the Sunday morning shooting. Police said witnesses told them Hart was shot in an argument with a patron over a $19 bar bill.

WORKS IN ONE

DEAR WORKS: Many elderly people "fight" going to a rest home because they think it's an institution for unwanted, homeless old folks who have nowhere else to go. And in some cases, their children are to blame. THEY are afraid their friends will think they PUT their parents in a rest home because they didn't want to bother caring for them at home.

WANTS PRIVACY

DEAR WANTS: If you have nothing to hide, don't go ducking behind potted palms in nearby towns, lest you give the appearance of guilt. ("The wicked flee when no man pursueth.")

DEAR ABBY: Why don't people who are too old to live alone put themselves in a rest home instead of waiting until their children are ready for a mental institution trying to care for them along with their own family?

I work in a rest home and I wouldn't mind living here. Elderly people need more heat than younger people. They have special diets, can't stand too much noise and many of them need some kind of medical care. They go to sleep early and get up early. Their whole routine is different.

Trying to fit them into a home with teen-agers is unfair to them and the young people, too. Why do so many older people who can well afford it, fight against going to a rest home? Once they get here they are sorry they didn't come sooner.

Man, 71, Is Accused Of Shooting at Boys

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Ben Klinismit, 71, was bound over to the grand jury Wednesday on a charge of shooting with intent to wound 10-year-old Herbert Hayes. Klinismit waived preliminary examination when arraigned before Municipal Judge R. L. Marrs.

The charge, police said, was filed last Saturday after Klinismit allegedly fired a shotgun into a group of three youths, including Hayes, when he found them in the vicinity of a garage of his residence.

Man, 34, Indicted In Night Club Slaying

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—Ronald G. Hayes, 34, indicted by the grand jury on a second-degree murder charge in the slaying of night club owner Ben Hart, 48, will be arraigned Tuesday in Common Pleas Court.

The grand jury indicted Hayes of Sheffield Lake, Wednesday in the Sunday morning shooting. Police said witnesses told them Hart was shot in an argument with a patron over a $19 bar bill.

WORKS IN ONE

DEAR WORKS: Many elderly people "fight" going to a rest home because they think it's an institution for unwanted, homeless old folks who have nowhere else to go. And in some cases, their children are to blame. THEY are afraid their friends will think they PUT their parents in a rest home because they didn't want to bother caring for them at home.

WANTS PRIVACY

DEAR WANTS: If you have nothing to hide, don't go ducking behind potted palms in nearby towns, lest you give the appearance of guilt. ("The wicked flee when no man pursueth.")

DEAR ABBY: Why don't people who are too old to live alone put themselves in a rest home instead of waiting until their children are ready for a mental institution trying to care for them along with their own family?

I work in a rest home and I wouldn't mind living here. Elderly people need more heat than younger people. They have special diets, can't stand too much noise and many of them need some kind of medical care. They go to sleep early and get up early. Their whole routine is different.

Trying to fit them into a home with teen-agers is unfair to them and the young people, too. Why do so many older people who can well afford it, fight against going to a rest home? Once they get here they are sorry they didn't come sooner.

Legion Auxiliary Names Chairmen for New Term

Activity chairmen for the coming year were named when the Hall-Adkins American Legion Auxiliary conducted its monthly meeting Monday at the Post Home.

The session, attended by 21 members, was opened with a prayer by Mrs. Orin Dreisbach, chaplain. Regular reports were presented.

C. Richard McAbee, newly elected Hall-Adkins commander, was introduced as a special guest by president Eleanor Moss. He informed members that he and other legionnaires will accept Auxiliary suggestions that will benefit the post and will help the unit any way they can.

Past Junior President Cecelia Hoffman reported on the three-day convention held this month in Columbus. The local Auxiliary was honored with the Jean Gill trophy for another year, marking the second time the honor has been bestowed on the unit. Also received was a membership citation for securing the most members over last year.

The unit received the trophy through the outstanding efforts of Mrs. Stenobe Stonerock. She received a pen and pencil set for securing the most new members in the district.

Mrs. Mary Stephens, poppie chairman, received a flag pin award for her scrapbook that rated tops in the district.

Mrs. Walter Pickel Jr. presented a report on a Community Service meeting she attended at the convention.

Representing the local unit at the convention were President Moss, Mrs. Hoffman, Mrs. Mary Hedges, Mrs. Pickel and Mrs. Stonerock.

Activity chairmen for the coming year are Mrs. Bess Simson, rehabilitation; Mrs. Mary Stephens, poppy sale; Mrs. Roseann Stinson, child welfare; Mrs. Donna Hall, publicity; Mrs. Stonerock, membership and ways and means; and Mrs. Mildred Campbell, community service.

Taking part in visitation this month at the VA Hospital in Chillicothe were Mrs. Bess Simson, (chairman), Mrs. Cecelia Hoffman, Mrs. Mary Hedges, Mrs. Roseann Stinson, Mrs. Frank Webbe, Miss Maggie Mavis and Mrs. Stonerock.

Next month's meeting will be 8 p. m. Aug. 22 at the Post Home. The refreshment committee will be Mrs. Stephens and Mrs. Stinson.

Food Service Survival Tied To Computer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An Ohio State University dietitian predicts the electronic computer may be the key to survival for many food service operations.

John P. Casbergue, assistant professor of medical dietetics at Ohio State's School of Allied Medical Services, said computer use is now being studied in menu planning, work scheduling, cafeteria design simulation and food service planning.

Casbergue said there have been predictions that the future of the food business will be determined by only six major companies by 1975.

"Computer assistance will make it possible to increase management's position to the point that other companies, using traditional methods, will be unable to compete," he said.

Picnic Is Planned

The Faith Class of the First Baptist Church will hold a picnic 6:30 p. m. Monday at A.W. Marion State Park.

Grilling chicken outdoors? Baste with a mixture of melted butter, lemon juice, curry powder and paprika.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Why Not Compromise

DEAR ABBY: After eight years of marriage I am ready to leave my husband. Saturday morning while he was sleeping, I rearranged the furniture in my front room. When I went out in the afternoon, he moved everything back the way it was before I moved it. Naturally I was angry, so I moved everything back again my way.

This was no small job, Abby, as I have a grand piano, an overstuffed sofa with two matching chairs and several tables and lamps in that room. Well, at 2 o'clock in the morning my husband was moving the furniture around again. I figure that the office is HIS, and the house is MINE. And I don't tell him how to arrange the office furniture and he shouldn't tell me how to arrange the house furniture. I'd like your opinion.

ANGRY
DEAR ANGRY: You don't have to share your husband's office, but he has to live in the house. If he is dissatisfied with the furniture arrangement at home, let him say so and perhaps you can effect a compromise. In a marriage, there is no HIS and HERS. And if you two don't quit shoving that grand piano around, there will be a HIS and HERS HERNIA.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow,

Battleship Alabama Visitor List Soaring

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Some time in early August the battleship Alabama will welcome its 600,000th visitor since it opened to the public Jan. 9, 1965.

The World War II ship has averaged more than 30,000 visitors a month. The ship's log shows visitors from all the states and 20 foreign countries.

Capt David Frey, son of County Supt. and Mrs. James Frey of Logan, has been awarded the Purple Heart for wounds he received April 18 in Viet Nam. He was badly burned and received a hip injury caused by a Viet Cong booby trap. He is being treated in the Great Lakes Naval Hospital, Ill. The Frey family lived in Laurelville for several years when Mr. Frey was school superintendent here.

Gerry and Gary Poling, twin sons of Mrs. Mildred Poling of Route 2, are in Viet Nam where they are mechanics with the 134th Aviation Group in Can Tho. Gerry's wife the former Joyce Ebert, lives in Laurelville.

Johnny Fortner who is in the U.S. Navy is spending a leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fortner.

Paul Smith, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith, suffered a fractured leg when he fell at the home last week.

Mrs. Mae Archer Heirmer visited last week with Mr. and Mrs. Merwin McClelland and other Ohio relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. James Shaw (Linda McCabe) have moved into the Denny Drum property recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Melford Hart.

Miss Celesta Hoy was last Sunday dinner guest of Mrs. Frieda Lappen of Logan. In the afternoon they visited Mrs. Clara Phelps.

Mrs. Cora Allen who has been ill is visiting at the home of her nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Bowen of Columbus.

Mrs. Melvin Taylor is a patient in St. Anthony Hospital, Columbus, where she has been placed in traction for a back ailment.

Mrs. George Sweptson, who recently underwent surgery, has returned to her home. She was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton of Columbus from Thursday until Sunday of last week, after leaving the hospital.

The name of Mrs. Ansel Tisdale was inadvertently omitted from the list of guests who attended the shower given last week for Miss Janet Reid.

Nations Abroad Study Auto Safety, Too

LONDON (AP)—A few countries are moving to legislate more safety into the motor car, but in most the accent is on educating the driver and pedestrian.

Grim statistics on highway fatalities are not exclusive to the United States. The automobile explosion in other nations has brought with it an accompanying rise in traffic accidents and growing concern with safety problems.

The U.S. Congress is considering a wide-ranging bill to establish mandatory safety features in new automobiles, and the government has already set standards, beginning with 1967 models, for cars it will buy.

In other nations, an Associated Press survey shows, the automobile boom is a comparatively recent development and the stress has been more on driver and pedestrian education than on legislation.

In Japan, where streets already were crowded with pedestrians and bicyclists, the number of passenger cars quintupled during the five-year period from 1960 to 1965. And in a number of European countries, the number of vehicles almost doubled during the same period.

Even though the United States led the world in the total number of traffic fatalities last year, statistically it appears better off than some other nations.

The United States had some 91.3 million vehicles registered last year and about 49,000 highway deaths. West Germany, with only about one-tenth of the number of cars, had 15,710 fatalities.

Japan, with 2.2 million passenger cars in 1965, had a total of 12,475 fatalities. About one-fourth of those were pedestrians and another fourth were motorcyclists.

Britain, with 12.5 million vehicles registered, had an estimated 8,000 fatalities; Italy, with 10.6 million cars, had nearly 9,000 traffic deaths.

John Tye, controller of the British Safety Council, claims most accidents in Britain are due to lack of driving discipline.

"British drivers are probably the most courteous in the world," he added, "but apart from in Hong Kong I have never encountered such hazards as on British roads due chiefly to lack of lane discipline."

The British Parliament is studying a bill to make seat belts compulsory on new models.

The Victoria state government in Australia is considering requiring a dual braking system and a recessed dashboard.

In both West Germany and France, legislation has been enacted banning sharp, protruding objects from car bumpers, wheels or other parts in an effort to cut down injuries to pedestrians and cyclists.

Periodic auto inspections for older vehicles are mandatory in Britain and Japan.

Seat belts are not required in most nations. The belts appeared on the Italian market about four years ago but have been generally ignored, a traffic expert there said.

A spokesman for the German Automobile Association said his group opposes making seat belts mandatory because in some instances they have caused fatal accidents, even though, he added, there is no doubt they help reduce the number of fatal injuries.

A number of auto manufacturers in Britain, Germany and Japan, particularly those with an eye on the American market, have incorporated safety features on their own.

One safety development in Britain and Germany is the design of an auto chassis which gradually collapses under impact of a collision. These are on only a few models, however. Other safety improvements include padded steering wheels and crash-absorbing steering column on some models.

Not all the efforts towards safe driving have been made on the governmental level.

The Italian Automobile Club organized a campaign in 1964 using hundreds of photographers to take pictures of traffic violations. The offending drivers, traced by license plates, received letters asking them to mend their ways.

Italy also has made extensive road improvements and requires road safety courses in elementary schools. Despite that, its safety experts say, Italian drivers have much to learn.

In Mexico, one reporter observed, drivers tend to forget the rule of courtesy when they get behind the wheel. "They seem to feel it is an insult to be passed and a crime to be the last away from an intersection," he said.

Battleship Alabama Visitor List Soaring

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Some time in early August the battleship Alabama will welcome its 600,000th visitor since it opened to the public Jan. 9, 1965. The World War II ship has averaged more than 30,000 visitors a month. The ship's log shows visitors from all the states and 20 foreign countries.

Capt David Frey, son of County Supt. and Mrs. James Frey of Logan, has been awarded the Purple Heart for wounds he received April 18 in Viet Nam. He was badly burned and received a hip injury caused by a Viet Cong booby trap. He is being treated in the Great Lakes Naval Hospital, Ill. The Frey family lived in Laurelville for several years when Mr. Frey was school superintendent here.

Gerry and Gary Poling, twin sons of Mrs. Mildred Poling of Route 2, are in Viet Nam where they are mechanics with the 134th Aviation Group in Can Tho. Gerry's wife the former Joyce Ebert, lives in Laurelville.

Johnny Fortner who is in the U.S. Navy is spending a leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fortner.

Paul Smith, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith, suffered a fractured leg when he fell at the home last week.

Mrs. Mae Archer Heirmer visited last week with Mr. and Mrs. Merwin McClelland and other Ohio relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. James Shaw (Linda McCabe) have moved into the Denny Drum property recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Melford Hart.

Miss Celesta Hoy was last Sunday dinner guest of Mrs. Frieda Lappen of Logan. In the afternoon they visited Mrs. Clara Phelps.

Mrs. Cora Allen who has been ill is visiting at the home of her nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Bowen of Columbus.

Mrs. Melvin Taylor is a patient in St. Anthony Hospital, Columbus, where she has been placed in traction for a back ailment.

Mrs. George Swepston, who recently underwent surgery, has returned to her home. She was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton of Columbus from Thursday until Sunday of last week, after leaving the hospital.

The name of Mrs. Ansel Tisdale was inadvertently omitted from the list of guests who attended the shower given last week for Miss Janet Reid.

Nations Abroad Study Auto Safety, Too

LONDON (AP)—A few countries are moving to legislate more safety into the motor car, but in most the accent is on educating the driver and pedestrian.

Grim statistics on highway fatalities are not exclusive to the United States. The automobile explosion in other nations has brought with it an accompanying rise in traffic accidents and growing concern with safety problems.

The U.S. Congress is considering a wide-ranging bill to establish mandatory safety features in new automobiles, and the government has already set standards, beginning with 1967 models, for cars it will buy.

In other nations, an Associated Press survey shows, the automobile boom is a comparatively recent development and the stress has been more on driver and pedestrian education than on legislation.

In Japan, where streets already were crowded with pedestrians and bicyclists, the number of passenger cars quintupled during the five-year period from 1955 to 1965. And in a number of European countries, the number of vehicles almost doubled during the same period.

Even though the United States led the world in the total number of traffic fatalities last year, statistically it appears better off than some other nations.

The United States had some 91.3 million vehicles registered last year and about 49,000 highway deaths. West Germany, with only about one-tenth of the number of cars, had 15,710 fatalities.

Japan, with 2.2 million passenger cars in 1965, had a total of 12,475 fatalities. About one-fourth of those were pedestrians and another fourth were motorcyclists.

The Victoria state government in Australia is considering requiring a dual braking system and a recessed dashboard.

In both West Germany and France, legislation has been enacted banning sharp, protruding objects from car bumpers, wheels or other parts in an effort to cut down injuries to pedestrians and cyclists.

Periodic auto inspections for older vehicles are mandatory in Britain and Japan.

Seat belts are not required in most nations. The belts appeared on the Italian market about four years ago but have been generally ignored, a traffic expert there said.

A spokesman for the German Automobile Association said his group oppose making seat belts compulsory on new models.

tance they have caused fatal accidents, even though, he added, there is no doubt they help reduce the number of fatal injuries.

A number of auto manufacturers in Britain, Germany and Japan, particularly those with an eye on the American market, have incorporated safety features on their own.

One safety development in Britain and Germany is the design of an auto chassis which gradually collapses under impact of a collision. These are on only a few models, however. Other safety improvements include padded steering wheels and crash-absorbing steering column on some models.

Not all the efforts towards safe driving have been made on the governmental level.

The Italian Automobile Club organized a campaign in 1964 using hundreds of photographers to take pictures of traffic violations. The offending drivers, traced by license plates, received letters asking them to mend their ways.

Italy also has made extensive road improvements and requires road safety courses in elementary schools. Despite that, its safety experts say, Italian drivers have much to learn.

In Mexico, one reporter observed, drivers tend to forget the rule of courtesy when they get behind the wheel. "They seem to feel it is an insult to be passed and a crime to be last away from an intersection," he said.

Garden Gossip

Edwin Richardson, 119 N. Washington St., has completed his misting house. As of last week he had placed cuttings in it for propagation.

Handy Hatfield has a new misting house in operation at the new home on Trimmer Road. He showed me some thriving roses that Mrs. Emmitt Barnhart had propagated for the Hatfield's last year in her misting house.

Mark my words, the time will come when every accomplished gardener will have a misting house. Just as all good gardeners now have compost heaps, they also will have these economical propagation facilities.

The Ted Hustons in Stoutsville noticed that their two pin oaks were yellowing. They applied iron chelate and in a short time foliage resumed its usual green color on one tree. They plan to give the other another dosage.

Yellow foliage is frequently caused by chlorosis or an insufficiency of chlorophyll. This is brought on because plants are unable to absorb sufficient iron for their needs. Perhaps the soil is lacking in iron or again perhaps the iron present is in a form unavailable to plants.

Rick Spies, 321 S. Washington, believes that buck plantain is the worst pest confronting heavily fertilized lawns.

Virgil Courtright, Stoutsville, says this was a most difficult year for his garden. In the first place the seeds did not grow and in the second place his plants are not thriving. For instance his sweet corn is a disappointment. He has always had excellent corn. This year it is slow and low.

Miriam Adkins, 610 S. Court St., has returned from a tour of the continent. She loved the wild flowers in Greece and Italy. June, she believes, is the month to travel in these countries. Oleanders were blooming wild along all the roadsides in Greece.

The most beautiful gardens were those at Schoenbrunn in Vienna, Austria, Mrs. Adkins said.

The rains came just in time to revive our clover fields. Never in July have Pickaway Clover fields been so beautiful with their pink blooms. Mrs. Lyman Penn's field of clover near our home is one such field.

Dr. Joe Goeller on Route 56 has a beautiful planting of gloriosa daisies near his back walk.

Frankie Stump, also on Route 56, has several clumps of these bright daisies at fence posts along his garden.

Until the Burpee Seed Co. worked with them, these daisies were plain black-eyed Susans. They now have a deservedly glamorous name. They are especially fine this year.

People who read about the Stephan daylily garden in Columbus were interested in Lady Inara, a pink variety that cost $100 some seven years ago.

We were interested to see this lovely daylily in the garden at the Ted Hustons last week. We understand that Mrs. James Moffitt, E. Franklin St., also has one.

Daylilies were starting at the Huston garden. Several of Mrs. Huston's lovely varieties came from the Hatfield garden.

Mrs. Ed Fetherolf has a fine collection of named varieties of daylilies.

Personally we love Bess Ross, a big red daylily. Handy Hatfield says they are working more on the blues and whites. The last year or two the melon colors were the rage with the hybridizers.

We think the hybridizers are a long way off from a blue daylily. We put "Purple Waters" in our purple and white garden. It was a misfit. It may be purple in with the oranges and yellows but in with the purples it's a mahogany with orange over-cast.

We are visiting Mrs. Francis Furniss's garden soon. She lives in the Five Points vicinity and we understand has gardened for a long time.

The George McDowells of Ashville and the Dave Yates of E. Mound St., are the only people we know with golden rain trees. They are in bloom now.

The battle of the butcher knife is going full swing at our house. The garden editor maintains that a butcher knife is most valuable as a garden tool. Her husband maintains that garden work is ruinous to butcher knives. He recommends the trowel.

The trowel is usable only in loamy, tillable soil. It is of no earthly use in our heavy clay.

The garden editor bent the browel belonging to the Willisson Leist family the other day trying to uproot some datura plants that abound in their flower bed. These plants when in blossom have big white trumpet shaped flowers. A stunning annual which self seeds. The Leists live on Watt St.

Another Watt St. gardener is Mrs. Leslie Karshner. We noticed a southern hibuscus of brilliant red planted in front of her house.

At the John Caldwell place on Route 104 they have a mudroom. Mudrooms are invaluable for gardening families.

One of the larger flower beds in the Harford Renick garden in Jackson Twp. was planted with red geraniums which Harford grew from seeds. Until recently geranium seeds would not come true. Geraniums need eight hours of sunlight to do their best blooming, says Mr. Renick.

Ronnie Allen, who takes care of the lawn of Miss Hazel Marie Williams of Whisler, reported a curious thing. He says that the holes in the lawn near the ditch are tunnels of crayfish which emerge during the night. He found one in a hole.

We have holes in our yard too. On a couple of occasions I have seen snakes going down into them. I would pre-

Caldwells Enjoy Cozy Life In Their Enchanted Forest

Do you recollect how the old fairy tales used to start out? It was often like this: "Once upon a time there lived in the heart of a deep forest an honest woodcutter and his wife and little daughter. The child had for her playmates the birds and the squirrels and the butterflies."

To my delight recently I came upon them in real life. They are John S. Caldwell, his wife and his 7-year-old daughter, Emilie. They live in the heart of a 10-acre forest. And Emilie does indeed have for her playmates all the forest creatures.

Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell have lived here 13 years and it took almost three years to clear an acre in the woods for their home.

YOUNG NURSE — Emilie Caldwell, 7, has a new friend, an abandoned sparrow that she has fed and nursed back to life. Notice how the bird perches happily on Emilie's hand.

Because a bulldozer can play havoc with a woods, John Caldwell preferred to clear the fer that they were crayfish tunnels.

We asked Hazel Marie if she had ever seen any crayfish in the yard — belated fellows who had not returned to the tunnels in time. No, she never has.

But Miss Williams has seen crayfish recently. She and Miss Alice DeLong were touring the Tar Hollow area and discovered that the campers there included the Charles Barnhart family. The kids took them over to a little stream where there were scads of crayfish.

Pat Fleming, Pickaway County Fair Flower Show chairman, called to say Garden Club people are most assuredly connected with the Fair flower show. Every person on her committee is a garden club member. They are responsible for planning, staging and registration.

SUNFLOWER'S OKAY — Posing beside a nice big sunflower is Debbie Painter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Painter, Sunset Drive. When Carlton B. Lees addressed the Pickaway County Garden Club, he mentioned that his own candidate for the National Floral Emblem was the sunflower. According to Lees, they know it flourished in the Missouri Valley 4,000 years ago. The Asians prefer our sunflower oil to corn oil. Therefore, it is helpful to our national economy. Lees has seen small sunflowers growing in hot railroad yards. Debbie says the sunflower is okay with her as the National Floral Emblem. This one just suddenly came up in the Painter yard near a young maple tree.

IN A SUNLIT GLADE — Although the Caldwell house is built deep in a forest the one-acre clearing provides sunlight. Mrs. John S. Caldwell and daughter, Emilie, stroll through the dewy grass near the home. Giant native trees abound in the background. To protect these, the Caldwards refused to allow bulldozing. Caldwell cleared the space himself by dynamiting and using a hand saw.

trees away with dynamite and his own hand saw. A mighty task! But one that he was equal to, although Mrs. Caldwell doubts if he could do the same thing now.

THE CALDWELL address is Route 3. The name of their place is "Caldwood," short for Caldwell's woods. The place is on Route 104. It was once known by some as Highbanks.

The family is frequently annoyed by motorists entering the driveway thinking the place to be a park. Knowing drivers, it's my opinion that passersby can't resist the temptation to follow the drive for a look-see. And who could blame them.

The ranch type house is set in a clearing with a velvety green lawn. The Caldwards have planted evergreens at the edges of the yard. Behind these, some of them very tall, loom the giant forest trees.

John Caldwell says that when the leaves begin to turn brown and fall in late autumn, the evergreens are a pleasing sight to them.

The evergreens consist of hemlock, white pines, Black Hill spruce, Colorado blue spruce and Norway spruce. The Colorado spruce were the gift of Mrs. Caldwell's father, the late John F. Zaenglein who organized Circleville High School's first large marching band.

The native trees include some of Ohio's most precious timber, shingle oak, white oak, red oak, hickory, wild cherry and walnut.

RED BUD and dogwood abound. In fact John Caldwell considers the redbud a weed tree and does not mind in the least "pitching redbuds" that happen to be in the way.

A big white oak frames the house. And Mrs. Caldwell's favorite of all the trees is the alba hickory from which she harvests a crop each fall of big and delicious nuts.

Caldwell has used the wild cherry from the place for his livingroom woodwork and the walnut for the family room and the diningroom. In Emilie's room the woodwork is wormy chestnut. It is nonetheless lovely because it came from an another country.

The chestnut made a sort of tom-boy room for Emilie. It was formerly her father's domain and where he kept his bug and beetle collections. He is an entomologist.

Pesky Weed Controlled by Herbicides

Buck plantain is in the process of blooming and setting seed right now.

A more innocuous lawn weed you will not find. In July it is most noticeable because the plant-a rosette of green leaves, develops a flower spike six or eight inches high.

The flower and seed terminate the spike. Hundreds of flaky, minute seeds are then spread over the lawn and will thrive during dry weather when blue grass is dormant.

Joe Bell, Brehmer Greenhouse lawn specialist, gave some sage advice when we called to ask what to do about buck plantain. "Kill it" was his reply. They have a weed killer that's death to at least 14 kinds of lawn weeds. Just sprinkle it on when the ground is damp or the grass dewey. The more weed killer that clings to the foliage the surer the kill.

At the extension office they recommend a sprinkling of 2-4 D over the lawn. Mix with water, according to directions on package.

At God's Nursery they recommend any modern weed killer with 2-4 D.

Bell says their product will kill the plant but not the seeds. This is true of most weedkillers.

The trick then, we suppose, is to apply the weed killer when plantain is first emerging.

Wise Growers Divide Their Iris Plants

Almost any time is iris planting time.

This is a rhizome that can remain out of the ground for a long time and still "make it." However, the preferred time for separating and replanting is July and August.

Old clumps are dug and pulled apart. This may be done immediately after flowering or can be done now if more convenient.

For propagation, rhizomes are cut into pieces, each having a single fan of leaves. Cut the leaves to six or eight inches. Shallow planting is a must.

BARELY cover the rhizomes or better yet allow rhizomes to show just above the ground surface.

Mrs. James Moffitt, Franklin St. iris fancier, says that rhizomes should be divided about every three years to keep the blossoms coming at their best. After dividing, the plant will not bloom the first year.

The strong outside pieces of the rhizome are best for replanting. Discard the rest unless many plants of one type are desired.

PROBATE COURT NOTICE — All interested parties are hereby notified that the following Executrix, Guardian and Administratrix have filed their accounts in the Probate Court of Pickaway County, Ohio:

No. 22166 Eva Long and Margaret Collins, Administratrices of the estate of George E. Brigner, deceased. First and final account.

No. 8835 E. A. Smith, Guardian of the person and estate of Stuart D. Pontius, an incompetent person. Twelfth partial account.

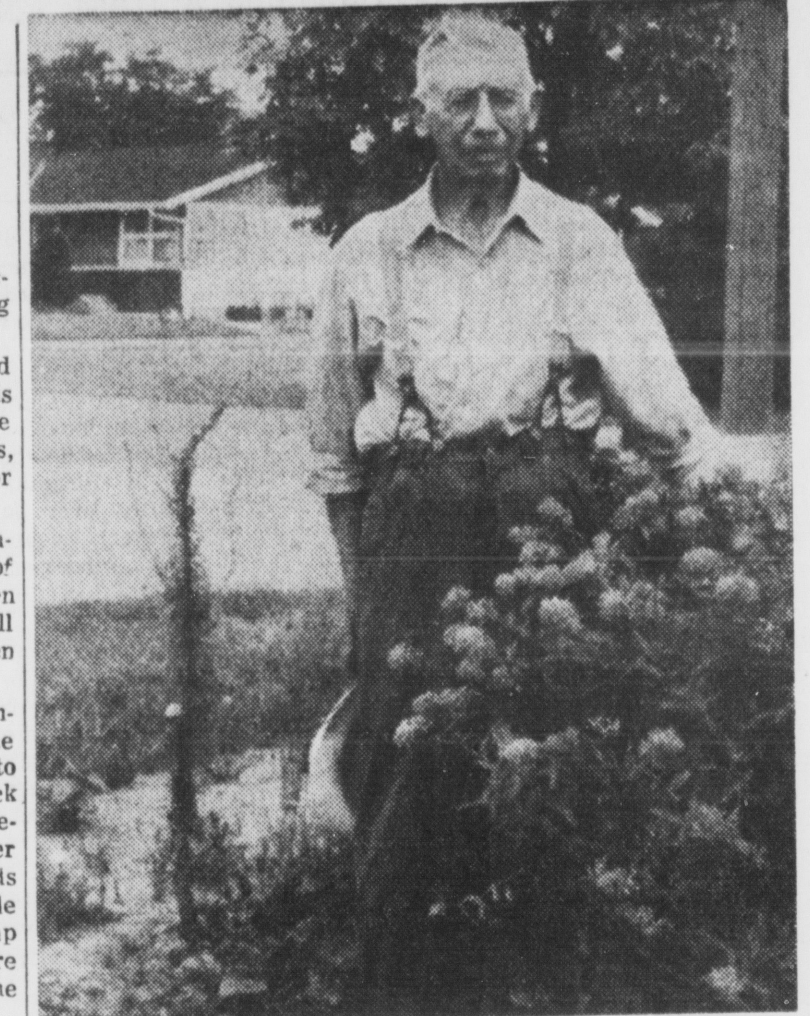

No. 21625 Dora B. Hedges, Executrix of the estate of J. Leo Hedges, deceased. First and final account.

And that said accounts will be for hearing and settlement before this Probate Court on Monday, August 15th, 1966, at 9 o'clock A. M. Exceptions to said accounts, if any, must be filed herein on or before August 9th, 1966.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Probate Court this 13th day of July, 1966.

SAGE OF STOUTSVILLE — V. D. Courtright, a gardener of excellence, stands beside an amazingly large plant of Asclepias. To his left is a spire of glia which will have a red phlox-like florets when it blooms. A retired machinist, Courtright is a fine gardener and a well informed botanist. Courtright says standing cypress is not a cypress but acquired its name because of its feathery cypress-like foliage. Glia belongs to the Polemoniaceae family. It is a phloxwort and its botanical name is Glia coronopifolia. Asclepias is the botanical name for our beloved wildling butterfly weed which, alas, is rather difficult to grow in the garden.

Peony Root Needs an Eye

According to the New Illustrated Encyclopedia of Gardening edited by T. H. Everett, September is the ideal time to divide and plant peonies.

If, however, a bulldozer is about to destroy your peony bed in July or August by all means lift the roots and replant.

When dividing peony plants make certain that each part of the root you plan to propagate has at least one eye. It will perhaps be better if a root has several eyes.

Place compost or well rotted manure in a 12 by 20-inch hole. Bury the root no more than two inches below the surface.

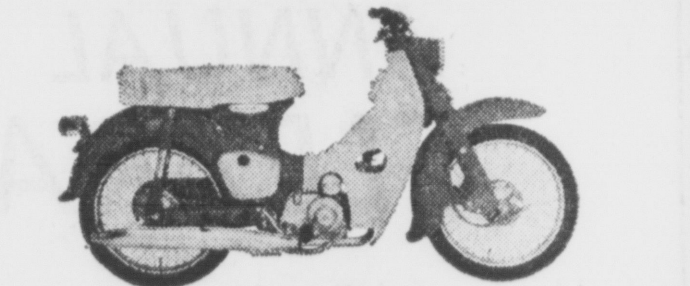

FOLIAGE may be cut off at planting time. Try to plant peonies where it will not be necessary to disturb them.

Planting too deeply will prevent blossoms from forming. Remember two inches of covering is enough.

The chestnut made a sort of tom-boy room for Emilie. It was formerly her father's domain and where he kept his bug and beetle collections. He is an entomologist.

But Emilie does not mind. Though young, she also is an entomologist and actually does know and cherish bugs and beetles. She has a handsome old gun on her wall.

The day we visited, Emilie was nursing back to health an abandoned sparrow. She and her dog Coca showed us her treehouse behind which is a cemetery for her creature friends that have departed this life.

MRS. CALDWELL, also Emily but spelled differently, has made cuttings from yews. Taxus is the main foundation planting. She says that nasturtiums did well in this woody spot and she always has them for summer bouquet. In the spring they have bulbs coming up all over the place, which along with the redbud and dogwood make it something of a fairyland.

Right now daylilies, daisies around the lamppost and coleus of brilliant hues in the flower boxes on the patio provide contrast to the all green woods area.

Once the Caldells tried roses. But this forest clearing is a climate in itself. The heavy dew caused too much black-spot.

Mrs. Caldwell says the dogwood stays in bloom two or three weeks. Their flowering crabs are beautiful for only two days. Their lilacs provide them with plenty of bloom. These are planted near the blacktop driveway.

The woods critters won't let their vegetable garden alone. So the Caldells have settled for potatoes and onions. These do not seem to tempt the rabbits and groundhogs, mountain jacks and squirrels.

John Caldwell says that he dislikes the poison sprays that linger indefinitely in the ground or on the foliage. He takes a dim view of DDT.

He is most interested in fighting insects by importing their natural enemies. He keeps in close touch with a French entomologist who is working on this theory.

Some stories are just fairy tales. But some fairy tales are true. And this one about the woodcutter and his wife and child is true.

John Caldwell really is a woodcutter. He has a wife who truly enjoys and laughs about it all. And he has a little girl that really does make friends with forest creatures. A rare and delightful family in a rare and delightful setting!

Pesky Weed Controlled by Herbicides

Buck plantain is in the process of blooming and setting seed right now.

A more innocuous lawn weed you will not find. In July it is most noticeable because the plant-a rosette of green leaves, develops a flower spike six or eight inches high.

The flower and seed terminate the spike. Hundreds of flaky, minute seeds are then spread over the lawn and will thrive during dry weather when blue grass is dormant.

Joe Bell, Brehmer Greenhouse lawn specialist, gave some sage advice when we called to ask what to do about buck plantain. "Kill it" was his reply. They have a weed killer that's death to at least 14 kinds of lawn weeds. Just sprinkle it on when the ground is damp or the grass dewey. The more weed killer that clings to the foliage the surer the kill.

At the extension office they recommend a sprinkling of 2-4 D over the lawn. Mix with water, according to directions on package.

At God's Nursery they recommend any modern weed killer with 2-4 D.

Bell says their product will kill the plant but not the seeds. This is true of most weedkillers.

The trick then, we suppose, is to apply the weed killer when plantain is first emerging.

Wise Growers Divide Their Iris Plants

Almost any time is iris planting time.

This is a rhizome that can remain out of the ground for a long time and still "make it." However, the preferred time for separating and replanting is July and August.

Old clumps are dug and pulled apart. This may be done immediately after flowering or can be done now if more convenient.

For propagation, rhizomes are cut into pieces, each having a single fan of leaves. Cut the leaves to six or eight inches. Shallow planting is a must.

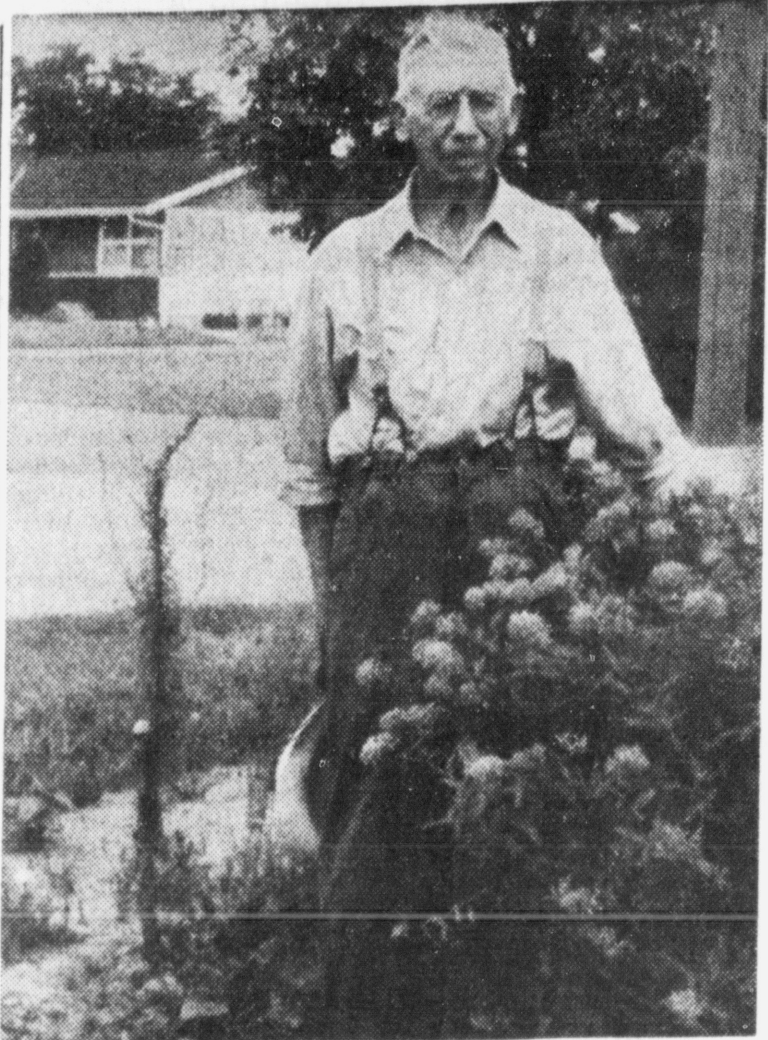

BARELY cover the rhizomes or better yet allow rhizomes to show just above the ground surface.

Mrs. James Moffitt, Franklin St. iris fancier, says that rhizomes should be divided about every three years to keep the blossoms coming at their best. After dividing, the plant will not bloom the first year. The strong outside pieces of the rhizome are best for replanting. Discard the rest unless many plants of one type are desired.

PROBATE COURT NOTICE
All interested parties are hereby notified that the following Executors, Guardian and Administratrices have filed their accounts in the Probate Court of Pickaway County, Ohio:

No. 2166 Eva Long and Margaret Collins, Administratrices of the estate of George E. Brigner, deceased. First and final account.

SAGE OF STOUTSVILLE — V. D. Courtwright, a gardener of excellence, stands beside an amazingly large plant of asclepias. To his left is a spire of gilia which will have a red phlox-like florets when it blooms. A retired machinist, Courtwright is a fine gardener and a well informed botanist. Courtwright says standing cypress is not a cypress but acquired its name because of its feathery cypress-like foliage. Gilia belongs to the Polemoniaceae family. It is a phloxwort and its botanical name is Gilia coronopifolia. Asclepia is the botanical name for our beloved wildling butterfly weed which, alas, is rather difficult to grow in the garden.

Peony Root Needs an Eye

According to the New Illustrated Encyclopedia of Gardening edited by T. H. Everett, September is the ideal time to divide and plant peonies.

If, however, a bulldozer is about to destroy your peony bed in July or August by all means lift the roots and replant.

When dividing peony plants make certain that each part of the root you plan to propagate has at least one eye. It will perhaps be better if a root has several eyes.

Place compost or well rotted manure in a 12 by 20-inch hole. Bury the root no more than two inches below the surface.

FOLIAGE may be cut off at planting time. Try to plant peonies where it will not be necessary to disturb them. Planting too deeply will prevent blossoms from forming. Remember two inches of covering is enough.

Helwagen
Five Back
In Tourney

Bruce Helwagen is five strokes off the pace in the Columbus District Amateur Golf Tournament, with a 74-73-147 after the second round.

Leading the event are Ed Sneed Jr. and Ross Bartschy Jr. with 143 36-hole totals.

Bob Littler Jr., who captured the Southeastern Ohio Golf Assn. title when the organization held its annual tournament at the Pickaway Country Club, withdrew although he held the halfway lead with a 74-68-142. He had a previous commitment to play at the Mansfield Invitational which begins today.

Other Circleville golfers in the tournament are Steve Helwagen and Tim Dickinson. Both have 154 totals for the tournament.

STEVE HELWAGEN was scheduled to tee off at 9:46 a. m. today while Dickinson was slated to go in the next threesome at 9:54. Bruce Helwagen was slated to start at 10:02 a. m.

Scores of 161 or better made today's action. The field will be cut to the low 60 golfers for tomorrow's finale.

14 Baseball
Teams OK'd
By Legion

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—The annual American Legion state baseball tournament with 14 teams competing gets under way here next Monday with the championship game scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 6.

The seven-state regional tournament, which will also be held here, is set for Aug. 18-23.

The 1965 state champions, the Parschall Post 164 team of Grove City, will be on hand to defend its title. Piqua, last year's runner-up, also will return, as will Lima, Fremont, Hillsboro, Lancaster, Ashtabula and Steubenville. Other teams competing are from Ottawa, Cincinnati, Ashley, Cambridge, Garfield Heights and Hudson.

It will be a double elimination tournament with pairings decided Sunday night.

Redskins Drop
Ex-OSU Great

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP)—The Washington Redskins, who have one fullback candidate from Ohio State in rookie Tom Barrington, have given up on two others including ex- Buckeye great Bob Ferguson.

The Redskins, training here, asked waivers Wednesday on Ferguson and free agent Tom Schaffer of Chattanooga. Ferguson was trying for a comeback after playing one season and part of another for the Pittsburgh Steelers, a stint with the Minnesota Vikings during which a knee injury hampered him, and being inactive in 1964 and 1965.

Exhibition Pro Football
Season Is Given Start

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The New York Jets rookies beat the Boston Patriots rookies 14-13 Wednesday night in an unofficial start of the exhibition pro football season. And in a game-type scrimmage the Chicago Bears whipped the College All-Stars 34-20.

The regular pro exhibition season opens Monday night with Philadelphia at Atlanta in the NFL. The AFL exhibition season starts Tuesday night with Oakland at Houston.

Emerson Boozer of Maryland State scored the winning touchdown for the Jet rookies on a three-yard run in the last quarter of the game at Lowell, Mass. The All-Stars, prepping for their clash with the Green Bay Packers in Chicago a week from Friday, made a respectable showing against the Bears in the scrimmage at Rensselaer, Ind.

A 70-yard TD run by Roy Shivers of Utah State provided the main fireworks for the All-Stars against the Bears who were led by Gale Sayers and Andy Livingston. Donny Anderson of Texas Tech also scored a TD for the All-Stars on a 10-yard end sweep. Each team was allowed 12 successive offensive plays in the game with 36 plays by each constituting a half.

Meantime a break seemed imminent in the various salary disputes when John Gordy, guard for the Detroit Lions, signed his contract. Ted Karras, Pat Studstill and Bruce Maher still are unsigned by the Lions.

Wisconsin Plans
Baseball Appeal

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin turned toward the U.S. Supreme Court today in its bid to bring baseball to pay on an antitrust charge after losing the battle in its own court.

The 4-3 Wisconsin Supreme Court ruling Wednesday that awarded the Braves to Atlanta left the prospect of return of baseball to Milwaukee at least distant, if not forever doubtful.

The Wisconsin court said specifically that baseball is a monopoly and gravely wounded Milwaukee by deserting the city, but it ruled the sport remained immune to antitrust prosecution.

3 Beckley Brothers
See Their Pacer Win

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The three Beckley brothers racing their 4-year-old roan gelding Ibidem at Scioto Downs celebrated a feature victory Wednesday night as the horse paced the mile in 2:06 4-5 over a rain-soaked track.

Ibidem, driven by Phil Beckley and owned by Herman and Larry Beckley of Albany, Ind., did it in a three-horse photo finish. The winner paid $9.20, $4.80, $3.20; Miss Bulky Lind, second, paid $10.20, $4.60, and Great Berry, third, returned $2.40.

Art Powell and Clem Daniels, Oakland Raiders stars, still are holding out although they worked with the team at Santa Rosa, Calif., Wednesday for the first time. General Manager Scotty Stirling told them he would not negotiate unless they came to camp. Each reportedly wants a three-year, no-cut contract at $50,000 a year.

The Denver Broncos announced the end of the "dissatisfaction" of quarterbacks Mickey Slaughter and John McCormick over their contracts, but quarterback John Brodie of the San Francisco 49ers continued his holdout in Hawaii.

End Ear Faison and back Paul Lowe of San Diego also are holding out, although it is reported that Faison is close to signing.

In the latest salary flare-ups, end John Mackey and back Jimmy Orr of Baltimore left the Colts' training camp.

Three other Baltimore veterans are unsigned, end Ray Berry, flanker Willie Richardson and place kicker Lou Michaels. Fullback Cookie Gilchrist of Denver is conducting his annual holdout.

Other holdouts include three St. Louis Cardinals, end Sonny Randle, flanker Bobby Joe Conrad and kick-return specialist Abe Woodson.

Kochheiser
Upset by
Du Pont '9'

Du Pont upset previously unbeaten Kochheiser, 8-7, Wednesday in the Pony League.

It was only the third win of the season for the Du Pont nine against eight losses. Kochheiser still leads the Pony League with a 9-1 record.

Richard Radcliff and Doyle Kiser shared pitching duties for the winners.

Radcliff hurled the first three innings, allowing five runs. Kiser, credited with the win, worked the last four frames and allowed two runs.

STEVE THOMAS went all the way for the losers.

Du Pont had seven hits, including a double, a triple and a homerun. There were single runners on base when Mark Lutz clouted his double and single, but the bases were empty when he blasted his homerun.

Dean Fausnaugh hit a homerun and Glen Griebel, Wertie Teets and Dennis Kull smacked triples for Kochheiser.

Tribute Paid
To Tony Lema

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—The $92,000 Festival Open Golf Tournament starts bleakly today with the pros wearing black ribbons in memory of their colleague, Tony Lema, killed in a plane crash last Sunday.

The tourney is one of the PGA's most unusual events.

During a pro-amateur affair Wednesday, which Jacky Cupit topped with a six-under-par 66 for a record on the new Speedway course, a memorial to Lema was recorded.

At noon, play was halted and taps sounded on the loud speaker system. The Rev. Paul Reichart, Speedway chaplain, gave a brief memorial prayer.

Flags were put at half staff for the remainder of the meet, which ends Sunday.

Two minutes of silence were observed over the entire course. A flare burst overhead.

A field of 135 teed off today.

Posted in the locker rooms was a notice that funeral services for Lema and his wife, Betty, were to be held today in San Leandro, Calif.

Billy Casper was installed the tournament favorite. He won the same title in 1962 and is on the crest of a great 1966 season after taking the National and Western Opens.

The course, stretching 7,179 yards with a par 36-36-72, is so new that winter rules—improving lies on the fairways—prevail.

Defending champion is Bruce Crampton. Among those missing from the field are Al Geiberger, newly crowned PGA champion; Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Sam Snead.

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—As his home town flew flags at half staff, funeral services were held today for professional golfer Tony Lema and his wife, Betty.

They were killed with two other persons Sunday in a flaming crash of a private plane on a golf course near Munster, Ind. He was 32, she 30.

Among the 12 pallbearers' names were fellow pro Ken Venuri of San Francisco and Tommy Jacobs, chairman of the Professional Golfers' Association Tournament Committee.

Danny Kempe of Pottsville, Pa., led New York University freshmen hitters with a .333 average this spring. He's a 6 foot-2 first baseman.

Schedule with Perfect Record

The Knights of Columbus, winners of the Mosquito League crown, rolled to a 12-4 win Wednesday over Cook Insurance and ended the season with a perfect 9-0 record, the only unblemished finish in the Circleville Youth Baseball program.

In other Mosquito League action, Mac's bombed Circleville Lumber, 22-6.

The Knights finished the year a full two games ahead of the second place teams, Hill Implement and Ankrum Lumber. Cook and Prairie Lanes ended in third at 6-3. In fourth at 4-5 is Mac's. Archers and Pickaway Dairy are tied for the next spot at 2-7.

Block's Shoes and Circleville Lumber have a make-up game scheduled Aug. 2.

PHIL ROLL pitched the final game for K of C, striking out 13 and walking 17 while limiting Cooks to three hits.

Terry Brown worked the mound for Cook, issuing eight walks, striking out seven and scattering 11 hits.

Robert Rose and Roll smacked doubles for the champs. Mike Sparks, Roll, Brian Herron and Mike Diltz collected pairs of singles while Trent Carroll tagged a lone one bagger.

James Arledge doubled for Cook only extra baser. Terry Brown and Kevin Christy singled in the other hits for the losers.

Both teams went scoreless in the first frame. Cook was blanked in the top of the second, the champs moved for one. Cook tied it up in the third but K of C collected three.

Cook's pulled within one in the fourth when the Knights got another. Cook went scoreless in the top of the fifth and K of C bombed seven tallies from the insurance men. A lone score by Cook's in the last was not enough.

Both Mac's and Circleville Lumber used seven hits but Mac's made better use of theirs. Their 22 runs came on four in the first, 10 in the second, three in the third and fourth and two in the last.

Jeff Spires and Joe Smith split mound duties for the winners, walking eight and fanning six.

Circleville Lumber worked a trio of hurlers. Ken Williams, Robert Kisor and Tony Blankenship walked 25 and struck out eight.

Doug McGlone and Spires banged triples for the winners. Brent McPherson doubled for Circleville Lumber.

The Knights of Columbus, winners of the Mosquito League crown, rolled to a 12-4 win Wednesday over Cook Insurance and ended the season with a perfect 9-0 record, the only unblemished finish in the Circleville Youth Baseball program.

In other Mosquito League action, Mac's bombed Circleville Lumber, 22-6.

The Knights finished the year a full two games ahead of the second place teams, Hill Implement and Ankrum Lumber. Cook and Prairie Lanes ended in third at 6-3. In fourth at 4-5 is Mac's. Archers and Pickaway Dairy are tied for the next spot at 2-7.

Block's Shoes and Circleville Lumber have a make - up game scheduled Aug. 2.

PHIL ROLL pitched the final game for K of C, striking out 13 and walking 17 while limiting Cooks to three hits.

Terry Brown worked the mound for Cook, issuing eight walks, striking out seven and scattering 11 hits.

Robert Rose and Roll smacked doubles for the champs. Mike Sparks, Roll, Brian Herron and Mike Diltz collected pairs of singles while Trent Carrol tagged a lone one bagger.

James Arledge doubled for Cook only extra baser. Terry Brown and Kevin Christy singled in the other hits for the losers.

Both teams went scoreless in the first frame. Cook was blanked in the top of the second, the champs moved for one. Cook tied it up in the third but K of C collected three.

Cook's pulled within one in the fourth when the Knights got another. Cook went scoreless in the top of the fifth and K of C bombed seven tallies from the insurance men. A lone score by Cook's in the last was not enough.

Both Mac's and Circleville Lumber used seven hits but Mac's made better use of theirs. Their 22 runs came on four in the first, 10 in the second, three in the third and fourth and two in the last.

Jeff Spires and Joe Smith split mound duties for the winners, walking eight and fanning six.

Circleville Lumber worked a trio of hurlers. Ken Williams, Robert Kisor and Tony Blankenship walked 25 and struck out eight.

Doug McGlone and Spires banged triples for the winners. Brent McPherson doubled for Circleville Lumber.

1. Card of Thanks

I wish to thank my many friends and relatives for their acts of kindness, cards, gifts and flowers during my stay in the hospital. A special thanks to the doctors and nurses at Berger Hospital and the staff of the Ambulance Service. Joseph L. Anderson

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to the Rev. Roy Ferguson and Mr. Harvey Kirk for their spiritual help to Dr. R. H. McCoy, Dr. H. H. Swope and the Berger Hospital staff for their wonderful care and attention given to Mr. Eldon H. Frazier during his illness. Special thanks to friends and neighbors for the lovely flowers and expressions of sympathy. The Churches of Christ in Christian Union, the ladies of the church, Rev. Ferguson, William Strehle and the Deffenbaugh Funeral Home for their services, and our deepest gratitude to all who made our grief easier to bear. Mrs. Eldon H. Frazier and Family

Aching Koufax Records 2 More Marks

But Dodger Star Gets No Decision In 11 Innings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Sandy Koufax has given his aching left arm an 11-inning acid test . . . and proved that the Los Angeles Dodgers can win without him.

The Dodgers are within a whisker of the National League lead after Koufax' longest pitching ordeal of the season but all the matchless southpaw has to show for it are two more strikeout standards and a no-decision.

And Philadelphia's Jim Bunning knows just how Sandy feels. Bunning and Koufax gave way to relief pitchers after a brilliant 11-inning duel Wednesday night and the Dodgers immediately pushed over an unearned run in the 12th for a 2-1 victory that stretched their winning string to six and put them only one-half game behind first-place Pittsburgh in the NL race.

The Pirates climbed back into the top spot with a 5-3 victory over San Francisco, dropping the Giants into second place.

Koufax, whose arthritic pitching arm became painfully inflamed after his last start — causing speculation that he would miss a starting turn for the first time this year — overpowered the Phillies except for a second-inning homer by Rich Allen. He yielded only four hits and fanned 16, breaking one of his own records and moving up a peg on the all-time strikeout list.

His fourth strikeout was the 2,267th of his career, moving him past Lefty Grove into 10th position among the lifetime leaders. His 15th strikeout, in the ninth inning, was his 200th this season, marking the sixth straight year he has reached that plateau.

But, although Koufax also became the first hurler to pass the 200-inning mark — while lowering his major-league-leading earned run average to 1.65 — he failed to register victory No. 18. Instead, Phil Regan, who pitched the 12th, gained his eighth victory against a single setback.

Elsewhere, St. Louis and New York continued to roll, the Cardinals downing Atlanta 9-7 for their ninth victory in the last 10 games and the Mets edging Houston 3-2 for a 10-3 mark over their last 13. Cincinnati battered Chicago 11-2 in the other NL game.

KANSAS CITY BLASTED BOSTON 14-2, CHICAGO BLANKED DETROIT 5-0, BALTIMORE TROUNCED CLEVELAND 7-1, NEW YORK TRIMMED MINNESOTA 6-3 AND WASHINGTON TOPPED CALIFORNIA 7-5 IN AMERICAN LEAGUE PLAY.

Women Golfers Eye Curtis Cup

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — The boss of the U.S. Curtis Cup golf team says she has "eight players of equal status" ready to go against Great Britain here Friday. But she admits that, in practice, Anne Quast Welts has looked a little more equal than the rest.

Mrs. Welts, three-time women's National Amateur champion, has matched par 71 in warm-ups at the Cascades course. None of the other U.S. players has done that well thus far and so, at the moment, it looks as though she'll be playing No. 1 for the Americans when the two-day competition starts.

First-day pairings, though, won't be made until 5 p.m., EDT, today and U.S. nonplaying captain Mrs. Mark A. Porter isn't for a second tipping her hand on the American line-up for the six singles and three foursome matches scheduled Friday morning an afternoon. "So far as I'm concerned, it's still up in the air," she says. "We have today's practice to go. Anne's 71 has been the best but we've had several 74s, and I've been surprised our girls have learned the course so quickly. Three practice days is all we've had, you know."

The youthful British team, which arrived here a week before the first members of the American team put in an appearance last Sunday, has practiced so much that Mrs. S. M. Bolton, the nonplaying captain, told her players to take Tuesday and Wednesday off.

"We were afraid we might get stale," said Mrs. Bolton. "But we have found the course very English in design and demand. We've come to feel right at home at the Cascades."

Mrs. Porter, as American captain, has tended mostly to her American knitting but says she has "watched the British girls sort of out of the corner of my eye. They're young but good. We're all impressed, but we've been improving every day and we don't lack confidence."

U.S. champion Jean Ashley, Barbara Fay White Boddie, Carol Sorenson Flenniken, Barbara McIntire, Phyllis Preuss, Nancy Roth Syms and Helen Sigel Wilson are on the U.S. team with Mrs. Welts.

The British team includes Mrs. Michael Boallack, Joani Hastings, Pamela Tredinnick, Susan Armitage, Ita Burke, Marjory Fowler, Mrs. I. C. Robertson and Julia Greenhalgh. Their average age is only 25.

Blue Ribbon, Savings Bank Win Games

Blue Ribbon Dairy topped First National Bank, 15-3, and the Savings Bank upset Second National Bank, 21-13, Wednesday in the Little League Minors.

Second National, Wards Market, First National and Blue Ribbon are now deadlocked for the second spot behind IOOF. The quartet of teams have eight wins and five defeats, with one game remaining.

Jesse Jenkins went the distance for Blue Ribbon, fanning three, walking four and scattering six hits.

Randy Martin and John Ankrom split mound duties for First National, issuing 12 bases on balls, whiffing nine and allowing seven hits.

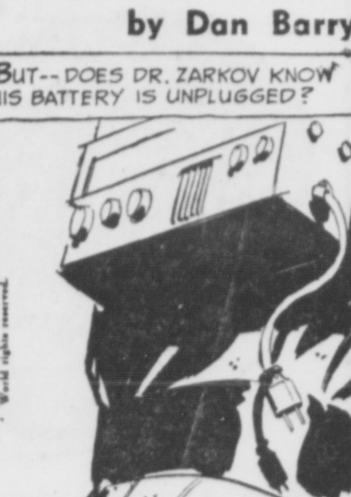

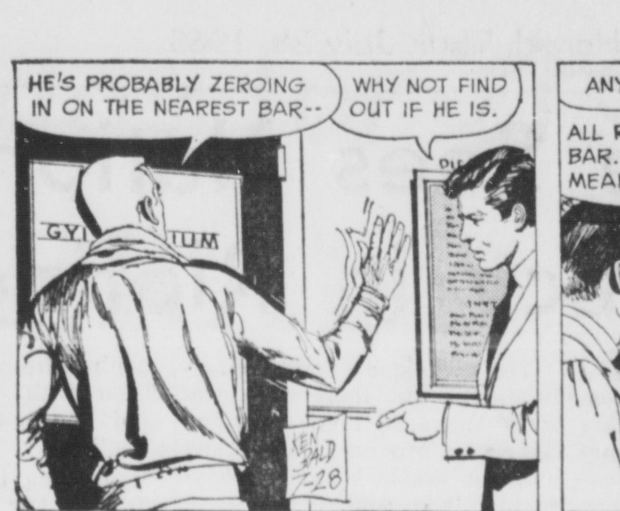

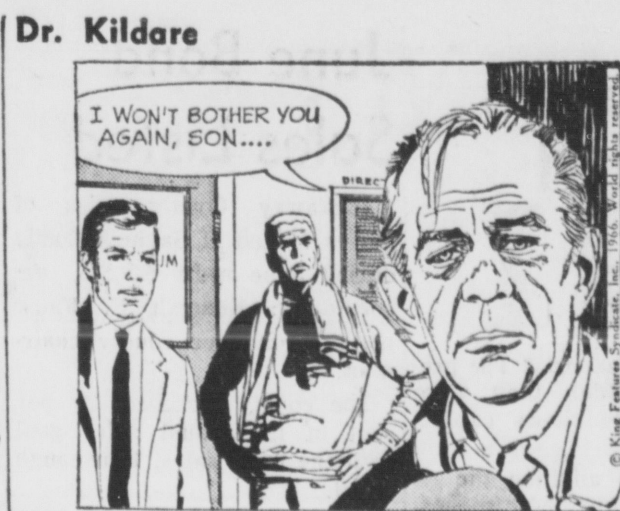

Chuck Cotton powered a bases loaded four-bagger for the winners. Reggie Radcliff tripled and R. Billups doubled. Jenkins helped his winning cause with three singles in four trips to the plate.

J. Ramsey homered for the First Bankers. D. Speakman added a triple and Jerry Johnson a double.

Danny Ramey went the route on the mound for the Circleville Savers, striking out 10 with five walks and allowing 12 hits.

Terry Hicks and Dave Winner tripled twice for the winners and Dan Crawford and Ramey had lone three bag shots. Mike Kiser, Winner and Hicks doubled.

Kirk Brown, John Brown and Mike Speakman tagged triples for Second National. Speakman, Tim Burns and John Carter doubled.

Women Golfers Eye Curtis Cup

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — The boss of the U.S. Curtis Cup golf team says she has "eight players of equal status" ready to go against Great Britain here Friday. But she admits that, in practice, Anne Quast Welts has looked a little more equal than the rest.

Mrs. Welts, three-time women's National Amateur champion, has matched par 71 in warm-ups at the Cascades course. None of the other U.S. players has done that well thus far and so, at the moment, it looks as though she'll be playing No. 1 for the Americans when the two-day competition starts.

First-day pairings, though, won't be made until 5 p.m. EDT, today and U.S. nonplaying captain Mrs. Mark A. Porter isn't for a second tipping her hand on the American line-up for the six singles and three foursome matches scheduled Friday morning an afternoon. "So far as I'm concerned, it's still up in the air," she says. "We have today's practice to go. Anne's 71 has been the best but we've had several 74s, and I've been surprised our girls have learned the course so quickly. Three practice days is all we've had, you know."

The youthful British team, which arrived here a week before the first members of the American team put in an appearance last Sunday, has practiced so much that Mrs. S. M. Bolton, the nonplaying captain, told her players to take Tuesday and Wednesday off.

"We were afraid we might get stale," said Mrs. Bolton. "But we have found the course very English in design and demand. We've come to feel right at home at the Cascades."

Mrs. Porter, as American captain, has tended mostly to her American knitting but says she has "watched the British girls sort of out of the corner of my eye. They're young but good. We're all impressed, but we've been improving every day and we don't lack confidence."

U.S. champion Jean Ashley, Barbara Fay White Boddie, Carol Sorenson Fleniken, Barbara McIntire, Phyllis Preuss, Nancy Roth Syms and Helen Sigel Wilson are on the U.S. team with Mrs. Welts.

The British team includes Mrs. Michael Boallack, Joani Hastings, Pamela Tredinnick, Susan Armitage, Ita Burke, Marjory Fowler, Mrs. I. C. Robertson and Julia Greenhalgh. Their average age is only 25.

Lausche Sees National Conspiracy in Rioting

CHICAGO (AP)—U. S. Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, contends that recent riots in big cities "are part of a national conspiracy executed by experts."

Lausche, of Cleveland, called the disturbances the worst lawlessness in American history.

"The mode of operation, especially in the Cleveland riot, indicated design and organization," the Democrat told the Independent Grocers Alliance Wednesday.

Counseling Available to Local Youths

The Ohio State Employment Service has announced a counseling service is now available to Circleville area youths.

Every Wednesday a youth counselor from the Columbus Youth Opportunity Center will be here to assist young people, 16 to 21 years of age. The counselor will be at the Courthouse from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m.

Applicants will have an opportunity to learn about training programs available, the Job Corps, employment possibilities and other vocational problems that might concern them.

Counseling is one of the many services offered by the Ohio State Employment Service to aid persons in increasing their job skills or offering other vocational guidance so that they may eventually find the employment for which they are best qualified.

A spokesman for the state office said the service will be provided in Circleville as long as there is a demand and young people are urged to take advantage of it.

Enrolls at Bliss

Miss Joyce Anne Keaton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Keaton, Columbus, has enrolled at Bliss Business College for a course in business administration.

Miss Keaton, a June graduate of Groveport Madison High School, will begin classes in September.

"The technique adopted clearly showed that there were centrally managed tactics keeping the riot in progress while many innocent people became involved in it," he said.

Reached later in Washington, Lausche said he did not have the name of any organization involved in the riots.

But he said, in a statement, "the expertness with which the riots were carried out points to centralized design."

"In Cleveland on Tuesday, July 18, at a club known as the JFK, with a friend of the U.S. Government unknowingly present, discussions were had about how firemen and policemen will be sniped," he alleged.

"While the discussion was in progress, Cleveland policemen entered the room. Those in attendance dispersed. Obviously, plans were preliminarily being laid to design a program of sniping."

"The sniping was not spontaneous, it was planned," Lausche said.

"Where was the knowledge acquired to manufacture Molotov cocktails? Was it inborn or acquired from experts? The precision with which they were used and made shows expertness."

Mentioning in addition the rioting in Los Angeles, Rochester, New York City and Chicago, Lausche said that looting and other disorders are not spontaneous outbreaks spurred by incidents.

He said the lawlessness was generated and heated up, in part, "by those who are living in luxury by conducting so-called nonviolent crusades."

"Wrought-up emotions stir up abnormal reactions regardless of the intent of the perpetrators," the senator contended.

He mentioned no names in this city where Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who advocates nonviolence, is conducting a campaign to improve housing, unemployment and education for Negroes.

Lausche gave reasons for what he termed the growth of defiance of law and order. They included:

Civic leaders, including clergymen, holding that civil disobedience is justifiable if a person believes a law to be morally wrong.

U. S. Supreme Court decisions which "shackle the police."

Cries of "police brutality" which place policemen on the defensive.

Refusal of citizens to listen to warnings that "in practically every demonstration of civil disobedience, the tactics have been methodical and manifestly directed by experts."

Lack of punishment for advocates of draft dodging and for labor leaders who defy a court order—as, he said, they did in the New York transportation strike this year.

Lausche said there is a need for an aroused citizenry to demand that law and order be enforced.

Scout Leader Meet Scheduled

Pickaway County Boy Scout leaders will hold their "kick off" Roundtable session at 7.30 p. m. Monday in the Trinity Lutheran Parish House.

Information on the 1966-67 scout programs, camps, and activities will be distributed. Cub Scout, Boy Scout and Explorer unit charters will be presented.

The leaders' program will stress the recruitment of new scouts in local scout packs and cub dens.

All men interested in becoming adult leaders and helping the community scout program are invited to attend.

June Bond Sales Listed

Pickaway County sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds during June were $40,515, according to Kenneth F. Fausnaugh, volunteer county chairman.

The county attained 29 per cent of its annual sales goal with the June sales, Fausnaugh noted.

Sales of the bonds in Ohio during June were $27.1 million. The sales in the state from Jan. 1, through June totaled $163.4 million—up $8.3 million over the same period in 1965. Ohio has achieved 53.6 per cent of an annual sales goal.

The county chairman pointed out that a recent Treasury Department regulation which allows tax exempt organizations to receive as gifts Series H Bonds having a face value of up to $200,000 in any calendar year has been received with great interest by business and industry as a part of their corporate giving programs.

June Bond Sales Listed

Pickaway County sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds during June were $40,515, according to Kenneth F. Fausnaugh, volunteer county chairman.

The county attained 29 per cent of its annual sales goal with the June sales, Fausnaugh noted.

Sales of the bonds in Ohio during June were $27.1 million. The sales in the state from Jan. 1, through June totaled $163.4 million—up $8.3 million over the same period in 1965. Ohio has achieved 53.6 per cent of an annual sales goal.

The county chairman pointed out that a recent Treasury Department regulation which allows tax exempt organizations to receive as gifts Series H Bonds having a face value of up to $200,000 in any calendar year has been received with great interest by business and industry as a part of their corporate giving programs.

Ex-Policeman Ruled Guilty in Slaying

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Former Spencer Twp. policeman Charles Thornton, 47, has been convicted and sentenced to 1-20 years in prison for manslaughter in a tavern scuffle. Victim of the shooting last Nov. 20, when Thornton was a police officer, was Joseph West.

PRESENTATION — The 113 swimmers in the Red Cross summer swimming program lined up to receive their certificates from director Mike Alkire and aides Lin Cook and Jill Robertson. The ceremony took place at the Circleville Swimming Pool.

Approximately 113 students and four adults receiving the awards.

A supply of patches from WBNS-TV and the Franklin County Chapter of the American Red Cross have arrived at the Circleville Swimming Pool, upon completion of the final session of swimming lessons.

Alkire, assisted by his group of water safety aides, made the presentations Saturday to all those who passed the tests. There were 32 polliwogs, 27 beginners, 24 advanced beginners, 20 intermediates, six swimmers

Ohio Senators Split On Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, voted with the majority as the Senate approved Wednesday, 55-37, Sen. Frank Church's (D-Idaho) amendment cutting $100 million from the $892 million foreign aid military authorization bill. Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, voted against the amendment.

Union Official Named

BOSTON (AP)—Joseph L. Aims of St. Louis, Mo., has been elected secretary-treasurer of the 300,000-member American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO.

Art Entries Due Saturday

Entries in the Juvenile and Fine Arts and Crafts Departments of the Pickaway County Fair must be delivered to the coliseum between 2 and 5 p. m. Saturday.

Mrs. Otis Runyon, one of the show chairman, noted today that the premium book erroneously lists times for delivery of entries at 2 and 5 p. m. Sunday. She advised that all who wish to enter the competition must have their entries registered on Saturday afternoon.

Judging of the many entries will be held beginning 2:30 p. m. Sunday. Serving as judge of the show will be Richard Bauer, dean of Fine Arts at Capital University, Columbus.
